Clemenceau on the U. S. A.
Pleasing to the Bald.

THE letter that Clemenceau sent to President Coolidge expressed no high opinion of the United States' attitude on war debts. The old French tiger is fighting for his country and uses the weapons at hand.

FOUR years ago, when he wrote an introduction for his book called "Industrial America in the World War," Clemenceau thought well of the United States and what it had done for France. Read this extract from Mr. Clemenceau's own writing:

"Meanwhile, here are some eloquent figures: In 18 months the United States sent up 5,000,000 tons of food supplies and 5,000,000 tons of war material. The steel they sent us represented the raw material for 100,000,000 '75' shells. The foodstuffs they sent us fed 12,000,000 Frenchmen for a year and a half. If this help had not been forthcoming, our army could not have held."

When Clemenceau wrote that, Europe had not yet changed Uncle Sam's name to "Uncle Shylock."

THIS news from Oxford will please bald men, and shock anti-evolutionists. The strength that barbarians used growing hair on the head and other parts of the body is transferred to the brain as hair disappears.

When men climbed down from the trees (the Oxford scientists say it, we don't) they were all hairy. In the time of Adam and Eve hair had disappeared to such an extent that Esau's hairiness seemed strange.

IN THE process of evolution those with less hair survived, for after men discovered the use of fire, those with long hair caught fire and were burned. Some perhaps invented the fashion of singeing the hair, that they might sit around a fire safely.

THE higher apes are born after seven months of prenatal life, and

CALLES TROOPS KILL PASTORS AFTER RIOTING AT LA GUAYABA

At Least 40 Persons Reported Slain at Zaguayo.

BITTER CLASHES

American Embassy Confirms Rumors From Guadalajara.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12.—Five priests were executed by Mexican soldiery following rioting at La Guayaba, in the State of Michoacan, in connection with the religious conflict between the Catholic church and the government of Mexico, dispatches from La Guayaba said today.

French Embassy May Protest.

At least 40 persons, including several priests, were killed a few days before at Zaguayo, not far from La Guayaba, according to the archbishop of Michoacan, now in Mexico City.

Bitter clashes between Catholics and Protestants have occurred in Irapuato in the state of Guanajato, according to El Sol.

The Catholics, vastly in the majority, burned down the houses of 18 Protestant families and committed many outrages against Protestant men and women.

Following reports of outrages against French Catholics in the state of Puebla, the French embassy sent an attache there for the purpose of investigation. If the reports are confirmed, the embassy will lodge a vigorous protest, it was stated.

Attempts at Mediation Fail

The American embassy today confirmed reports of fighting in Guadalajara. The embassy stated that eighteen were killed, 40 wounded, and 400 Catholics taken prisoner in the fighting.

Copies of a revolutionary manifesto alleged to have been signed by Nemesio Garcia Naranjo, former cabinet minister and prominent Catholic intellectual of the state of Nuevo Leon, were being circulated in the capital today. The circular calls upon the inhabitants to arise and overthrow the government.

The episcopate today denied reports that it was seeking a settlement of the religious conflict.

"Settlement of the conflict is farther from our minds than ever,"

Cecil Genevesi, 35, chef in the restaurant.

The wounded are:

Louis Ross, 40, a customer, in critical condition.

Mrs. Rhoda Cline Seeks Possession Of Replevined Auto

Mrs. Rhoda Cline has instituted an action in common pleas court, Lisbon, to recover an automobile which she claims to be in possession of Carman Hissam, municipal court bailiff, upon orders from the court. Bailiff Hissam, Hepps & Company and A. E. Hepps, are defendants in the suit.

The plaintiff charges that the defendants obtained a judgment against John R. and Minnie McHenry in Justice of the Peace P. V. Mackall's court on November 25, 1924, for $311.15, upon which $5 was paid. Two months ago she claims she purchased an automobile from McHenry and, because of the judgment returned against him in the other suit, she has been unable to secure possession of the car.

Mrs. Cline not only seeks to replevin the automobile but asks that she be awarded $100 damages.

FIVE ENTOMBED MEN ARE FOUND ALIVE IN ZINC AND SPAR MINE

Kentucky Camp Happy as Prisoners Reach Surface.

ONE IS INJURED

Workers Without Food Since Slide on Thursday.

SALEM, Ky., Aug. 12.—Five miners, who have been entombed in the Zinc and Spar company mine, near here, since last Thursday night when a "slide-in" blocked a level 150 feet beneath the surface of the main shaft, were found alive early today.

All of the men were in fairly good condition, considering the many days they have gone without food. George Capillo, one of the five, however, was injured having been struck on the back by a falling rock the second day after the slide occurred. It was said, however, that his condition was not serious.

The rescue was effected when two of the men, making their way through the level which had been choked with mud, water and rocks, saw the light of a lamp carried by one of the rescuers and called to him.

Relatives Given To Mine.

The men then returned to where the other three men were imprisoned and the six men made their way to the main shaft.

The rescue was made at 7:10 o'clock this morning. At that hour they had been imprisoned about 153 hours, the slide-in having occurred at 10 o'clock last Thursday night.

Besides Capillo, the others rescued are:

Roy Hames, U. B. Wilson, Randolph Cobb and Harry Watson.

Great joy reigned throughout the mining camp when the news was spread that the men had been brought out alive. Mothers, sisters, brothers and relatives rushed to the mine, four miles west of here, and a great cheer went up from the crowd.

Happy Reunion Occurs.

Relatives of the men who had been entombed in the mine rushed forward and a happy reunion followed. Preparations were made immediately by relatives of the men to take them

Sinclair Defeats Kerr, His Nearest Competitor for Commissionership, by 785 Votes, With Wilkinson and Van Blaricom Trailing in County Fight in Republican Primaries.

EMMONS AND VAN FOSSAN EASY WINNERS IN REPRESENTATIVE RACE

Congressman Frank Murphy, Who Was Unopposed, Leads Ticket With Poll of 6,063, According to Complete Returns Which Show That Only 9,480 Electors Voted.

With a majority of 2,220, Elmer E. Walker, Damascus, led the county Republican ticket for contested places in Tuesday's primaries, defeating ex-Mayor Albert Ferren, East Palestine, for the nomination for county auditor, according to the complete unofficial returns announced today by the election board.

Walker polled 4,821 votes against 2,601 given his opponent. But one other candidate for county office, Dr. J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, who was unopposed for coroner and who polled 4,931, received more votes than Walker, now serving the unexpired term of the late Auditor Charles E. Hamilton.

J. Howard Sinclair, Hanoverton auctioneer, defeated John McBane Kerr, Yellow Creek township farmer and granger, his nearest opponent, by a vote of 2,966 to 2,181, a majority of 785. T. H. Wilkinson, East Liverpool, with 1,371 votes, and S. N. Van Blaricom, Salem, with 1,259, trailed.

Fred George, Madison township, former deputy collector of internal revenue for this district, was a winner in the race for the Republican nomination for county treasurer, defeating Fred Eckfeld, Wellsville city auditor, the runner up, by 1,730 votes. C. H. Hoopes, Kensington, third candidate in the race, finished close on the heels of Eckfeld. The vote was: George, 3,870; Eckfeld, 2,142; Hoopes, 1,956.

Murphy Leads Ticket.

The closest fight was that for sheriff, won by George Wright, who seeks a second term. Wright polled 4,311 votes, compared with 3,693, given his opponent, David H. Eells, Lisbon, former turnkey at the county jail. Wright's majority was 618.

Ralph W. Emmons, East Rochester, led the field of four candidates seeking the two nominations for state representative with 4,791 votes. His running mate will be W. H. Van Fossan, Lisbon, who was given a vote of 3,654. The two unsuccessful candidates, H. D. Cope, Rogers, and R. D. Smith, Salineville, were credited with 2,083 and 1,630 votes, respectively.

The biggest vote on the ticket was received by Frank Murphy, Steubenville, for congress from the 18th district, who polled 6,063. W. C. George, East Palestine pottery manufacturer, defeated A. U. Richardson, East Liverpool, for member of the state central committee, 2,952 to 1,912. A. W. Scott, Cadiz, ran a poor third, being given but 963 votes in the county.

Beatty Third In County.

County Electors Reject Proposed State Amendment

Proposed amendment to the constitution giving municipalities authority to assess street improvement costs against abutting property holders instead of taxpayers at large, was rejected by Columbiana county electors by a vote of 4299 to 2859 at Tuesday's primaries.

Although the secretary of state's office in Columbus today had not yet started tabulating votes cast on the proposed plan, meager returns filed showed the movement was also defeated in the state.

H. M. CARPENTER GETS BIG VOTE

BROWN WIRES CONGRATULATIONS AS MYERS Y. COOPER CINCHES REPUBLICAN GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION BY 12,000 PLURALITY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12.—Congratulating the winners by the defeated candidates in the primary election seemed today to be the order of the day.

When tabulations showed that Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, had apparently cinched the Republican gubernatorial nomination with a final plurality that will be around 12,000 votes, Secretary of State Thad Brown capitulated and admitted defeat.

Brown sent Cooper a telegram stating: "Congratulations upon your victory. Best wishes for your success in November."

Hal H. Griswold, of Chardon, conceded the election of Edward C. Turner, Columbus, in the Republican race for attorney general and wired Turner his congratulations.

Albert D. Alcorn of Cincinnati sent his congratulations to Senator Frank B. Willis, who walked away with the Republican nomination for senator.

Stephen Young Wins.

While tabulating of returns from more than 700 slow reporting precincts went forward, all candidates who appeared nominated yesterday held their leading positions with little prospect of being dislodged.

The nomination of Myers Y. Cooper was a certainty. Cooper had 165,313 at the last count against Brown's 152,997 in 8,597 precincts.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, Stephen Young, of Cleveland, today had a total of 56,114 in 7,728 precincts which gave him a majority about 4,000 votes over J. H. Newman, of Columbus.

The contest for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket was decided in the early returns. J. O. Mills had the honor cinched. On the Democatic side, Earl Bloom, Bowling Green, won easily enough.

For attorney general, Edward Turner, Columbus, (R.), and Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, (D.), were the winners.

Latest Count on Contests.

For treasurer of state, Bert Buckley, Dayton, won from Guy Davis, Findlay, by nearly 10,000 in 7,000 precinct returns, and his opponent in November will be John Pattison, son of a former governor.

STATE SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Change is Announced in Courses for High Students.

Haphazard elective studies to meet the whims of students and teachers in the high schools of West Virginia under state control will be prevented in the future by the revised curriculum adopted last week by the state board of education after several days' deliberation over the report of the curriculum committee, headed by Prof. Lakin F. Roberts of West Virginia university.

The action of the board includes the adoption of many courses suitable for high schools of one room, up to the largest in the state. A definite type of well organized studies is outlined and it is left to the local authorities to adopt that which is most suitable to their schools.

This will necessitate the carrying of more required courses on the curriculum of a school, and less electives. It will require "the old-fashioned subjects considered essential for the training of citizenship."

Latin and other languages are included in the curricula of the schools, yet courses for the smaller schools are outlined without the language, so that it may be left out if desired. It was popularly understood that dead languages were not approved for high school study by the secondary principals at their meeting in Huntington last summer, but this was a mistake, J. F. Marsh, secretary of the state board of education, said.

The adoption of a course suitable to a school, in the opinion of the state board, will eliminate uncertain changes and waverings in the instruction in a particular school. It is believed that this will simplify high school organization, prevent over-lapping in teacher training, require each teacher to do his full share of teaching and discourage the employment of unnecessary teachers.

HELEN WILLS' OLD TENNIS BONNET BRINGS BUSINESS TO EYE DOCTORS

PHILADELPHIA — Helen Wills, American tennis star has started something in head gear that, according to optometrists, may impair the vision.

Miss Wills, appeared on the tennis courts of Caen, Monte Carlo and Nice with a visor which resembled a hat and a parasol and retained the best features of each.

Soon this visor became popular and even those who had never played tennis began to wear the new "headpiece." Now delivery boys, taxicab drivers, motorists go about with their faces shaded different colors from the light filtering through the visors.

Eye specialists here declared that they already have been treating several cases of defective vision which was traced to the continued use of this new head gear.

Dr. M. Lewis Levitt, a local eye specialist said he has several patients whose retinas are in a painful condition as a result, he believed from the promiscuous use of the visor.

"Rays of light that are necessary to produce a healthy stimulus to the eye are cut off and the eye soon loses its ability to function as nature intended," declared Dr. Joseph H. O'Neill, president of the Massachusetts Society of Optometrists, recently.

Myers Y. Cooper, Republican Nominee

Ohio Republicans have nominated a man of character and ability for the governorship in Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, who, with only seven precincts of 8,634 unreported, leads Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, his closest competitor, by 15,656 votes.

Cooper, banker, home builder, president of the Ohio Fair Managers' association and head of the Ohio Council of Churches, will oppose Gov. A. V. Donahey, renominated for a third term by the Democrats, in the November election.

The Republican standard bearer is well equipped for the vigorous campaign which he promises to wage. He was born on a farm in Newton township, Licking county, one of a family of eleven children who were reared in a modest home by parents who wrested a livelihood from a few hilly acres. Myers Cooper's early training was for the classroom, for his father, for 32 years a school teacher, emphasized the value of education. After attending the rural school, the gubernatorial nominee enrolled in the National Normal university at Lebanon and became interested in salesmanship. Upon leaving school he joined his brothers in the real estate business in Cincinnati.

He has been active in community work in his home city. He was one of the founders of the Hyde Park Business club and the East High Community center and served in Liberty bond campaigns during the war period. He is president of the Hyde Park Lumber company and one of the organizers and first vice president of the Hyde Park Savings bank. Great credit is given Mr. Cooper for originating a plan in the early day of his experiences that made it possible for workers to own homes on small cash payments, meeting the balance of their obligations on a rental basis. His greatest activity has been in the development of subdivisions and the building of modern homes.

Possessed of a personality that wins friends, he will radiate enthusiasm in the campaign preceding the election, as he did in the pre-primary canvass. And he will bring to his support all units of the party, for his sterling character, high ideals of public service and citizenship and business ability are certain to appeal to the Ohio electorate.

Women Car Washers

Here is a brand—new occupation for women, with real possibilities in it. An automobile service company that was dissatisfied with the sloshing activities of its male workers has hired a crew of women to wash cars. The suggestion came from a woman patron, who insisted that a woman would naturally do a better job than a man in housecleaning an automobile.

The results so far are said to prove her contention. Six women are employed in the establishment. Four of them, in khaki suits, rubber aprons and rubber boots, are turned loose on a car at once, for half an hour, and what they do to that car is a revelation. Dirt and grease vanish miraculously. The result is a cleanliness, neatness and polish, inside and outside, such as motorists never knew before.

How do the women workers like it? Ask them!

"Far better than housework," they say. "It's nice being out in the open. The work is healthful and interesting, too. Every car is a different job. It isn't like going over the same old floors and furniture all the time. And the pay is good."

Still man people will object, "It's not" women's work Others will point to it as a wholesome example, and insist on Mother getting out after supper, in Father's raincoat and boots, for the week-end cleaning, while Father sits on the porch and tells her how to do it.

Living Dragons

Alan Cobham, famous British airman, flying to Australia, sees on an island of the antipodes "two live dragons" comparable with the fabled monster slain by St. George, the Englist patron saint.

The beasts—or perhaps the reptiles—are described as "about 10 feet long, possessing huge claws with which they are able to kill and devour animals as large as horses." They are believed to be direct descendants of the prehistoric monsters whose fossils are found in the rocks and exhibited in natural history museums.

Thus the remote past meets the present, and science joins hands with legend. Nearly all races have their traditions of dragons, and in China they have become an inseparable part of the national art. It has been considered possible that such legends really represented dim human memories of struggles with such monsters as the dinosaur and his fearsome relatives far back in the infancy of the race. Few, however, have imagined that there might be actual survivors of that dread brood still existing on the earth. Komodo Island, near Bima, which is near Australia, should be an interesting port of call for future air tourists.

When a rural village can't profit by automobile traffic in any other way, it sets a speed trap and fines outsiders for driving through at 20 miles an hour or ignoring an "boulevard stop" on a cow-path.

Now somebody says the men are going to have beauty parlors of their own. And goodness knows, they need 'em.

West Toonerville News Item— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—New York as well as the outlands has been flooded for some time with what is known as "dumbell classics"—the dubious effort to make literature out of illiteracy. Certain metropolitan types are pictured as beautiful but brainless.

The popularity of such a theme is, of course, due to the glow of superiority felt by the reader. Stupidity is exaggerated and allotted to select few who through circumstances over which they had no control might not have been able to attend Harvard or Vassar.

All shop girls are not devoting their time to chewing gum and discussing the exploits of their marcelled movie heroine. Nor is every newstand girl looking for some emotional experience with a Pittsburgh millionaire. I have never heard a telephone girl exclaim "Migawd, Lizzie, did you see him stare?" or such.

There are chorus girls who do not lisp baby talk and cry every dinner companion out of a chinchilla or month's rent in the taxi going home. There are executives in the motion picture business who did not begin their careers tailoring pants in Essex street.

One of the most cultured and brilliant ladies I know used to preside at a hotel cigar and newstand. It happened that in sudden adversity the job was the only avenue of employment offered. Hers has been a life of rare sacrifice for others.

My contact with those cradled in luxury and refinement is extremely remote, but I have met a few, and the most vapidly inane creature I ever recall meeting belonged to the group society editors classify as "reigning debutantes."

She was sailing abroad for the first time and inquired where the steamer carrying the second-class passengers was. She thought they followed on a separate boat. She was no more representative of her world than the occasional slangy shop girl is of hers.

The intellectuality associated with horn rimmed glasses and the ability to use "whom" correctly may not flower along humbler paths but one cannot help but notice that those who came up, like Horatio Alger heroes, to endow universities and establish philanthropic funds are those whose education probably ended with the exploits of Ned in the First Reader.

All of which is not intended as a faint sneer at education. If I had a son it would be my ambition for him to acquire a college education simply for the pleasure knowledge gives, but in the actual affairs of men I do not believe it means a thing. Nor do I believe that 25 per cent of the real successful men in America are college bred.

A small shop-keeper in Nassau street took advantage of one of those frig'd summer days a few weeks ago to have his little joke. In a tray in his window was a sign: "Nine cents a pair while they last." The tray was filled with ear muffs.

The most ironical touch of all is a cellar coal and kindling sign on lower Second Avenue. It reads: "Coal and Kindling. Founded 1919. Director—Jake."

And then there is the umbrella-topped portable ice cream cart in midtown that is labeled: "Tony, Inc."

This from one of New York's foremost students of women's style: In three years fashionable women will be wearing long hair and skirts slightly above their ankles. The change will begin to be noticed this winter. We shall pelase binoculars and reserve seat A. 1 for the phenomenon.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Trade Commission Troubles.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The interesting proposition that every citizen of the United States is conclusively presumed to know each and every law of the United States, and therefore can not legally be considered to be deceived by anything that is lawful, is the feature of a defense recently filed with the federal trade commission by a cigar company accused of using misleading brands on its cigars.

Just where this defense, if sustained, might lead in stopping the federal trade commission in its career of prosecuting manufacturers for alleged misbranding is hard to foresee. In the case in point, the cigar company says it holds a United States trade-mark to the brand which the federal commission complains is misleading, and therefore, in effect, invites the trade commission to go tell its troubles to the United States patetn office, which issued the trade mark.

The question involved is the use of the word Havana in the trade-mark name of a cigar which does not contain any tobacco raised on the island of Cuba. The federal trade commission issued a cease and desist order against the manufacturer, declaring that to label a cigar made of other tobacco with a trade name including the word Havana was misleading. The manufacturers was told to stop it. The complaint set forth that it was unfair competition to use this name, because other cigar manufacturers do not use words which might lead the consumer to think a cigar is of Cuban tobacco when it is not.

The commission set forth that it is a common and general belief in this country that Cuban tobacco is superior to tobacco grown elsewhere, and that it is basically unfair to use the word Havana in a label on a non-Cuban cigar, even though the manufacturer made no direct claim that there was any Cuban tobacco in the cigar.

To all of this the manufacturer has replied that the trade-marked name of his cigar does not carry with it any claim of presumption that there is any Havana or Cuban tobacco in the cigar. The answer filed with the commission points out that the trade mark law of 1905 very plainly declares that it is not permissible to trade-mark a name is merely the common designation of a material, nor is it permissible to trade-mark a name which is purely geographical. Hence the mere name Havana could not be trade-marked, nor could the mere word tobacco.

Does Not Name Materials Used.

It is therefore quite plain, says the manufacturer, that the label on his cigar, which consists of the word Havana together with other words which do not necessarily refer to tobacco at all, is merely a coined label, invented as a trade-mark and carrying no implication that the cigar came from Cuba. Supposing the name were Princess Havana, or Havana Label, or something like that, the contention of the manufacturer is that it does not legally mean the cigar contains Havana tobacco any more than if the name were Hot Sugar Dandy Cigar, it would imply that there was any hot sugar in the product.

To hold otherwise, says the cigar making concern, would be to assume that the United States patent office had made a mistake in granting the trade-mark. It can not grant a trade-mark on a mere name of a common substance or material, or on a geographical name. Hence the trade-mark of the cigar in question was not granted on any basis except that the name in question was a term or combination of words invented solely as a trade-mark, and not to be confused with the geographical term or word Havana.

Should the commission respond that despite all of this, any ordinary person assumes that the word Havana refers to the city of Havana in the republic of Cuba, the manufacturer in turn says such an idea is impossible, because every citizen is presumed to be familiar with every law The trade-mark law says a trade-mark can not be granted for a geographical name. Every citizen, knowing the law, must therefore know that the name Havana in a cigar trade-mark does not and can not refer to Havana, Cuba.

For the federal trade commission to assume that anybody could possibly be misled into the idea that the word Havana in a trade-marked label refers to Havana, Cuba, is for the commission to assume that there is somebody who does not know the law. In law that is quite impossible. Everybody is conclusively presumed to know every law. Ignorance of the law is no defense for offending against the law. It is no excuse for complaining against anybody else for a lawful act. Every court in the country has always operated on that basis.

Hence the conclusion that the term Havana as part of a trade-mark does not and can not have any connection with the city of that name, and can not possibly, in law, deceive naybody for an instant.

Other Similar Cases.

This case is a sample of one of the intricacies of law which the federal trade commission is up against in its campaign against what it regards as misnaming and mislabelling goods of various sorts.

It has another cigar case pending in which the word Cuba is used as part of the lettering of a trade-marked cigar not made entirely from Cuban tobacco, and it has various other investigations under way in which its declared purpose is to compel manufacturers to stop using misleading names and labels and descriptions of goods.

Recently a manufacturer took out a trade-mark for a cigar named the Ford, and this was only accomplished over the protest of Henry Ford, the automobile maker. The latter contended that the cigar maker was infringing on a name made valuable in trade by the motor company. The patent office after extensive consideration decided that the motor company trade-mark restricted the name Ford only as a trade-mark for automobiles and was not infringed or damaged by its use as a name for cigars.

The Havana case will now be tried out in the federal courts, which are the final resort for all cases started by the federal trade commission. The commission also expects a court issue sooner or later over the new policy adopted by Chairman Will E. Humphrey of making magazines the subject of cease and desist orders for publishing advertisements appearing on the face of them to be fraudulent. No answer has yet been made in the first case of this sort, wherein a magazine has been complained of for printing a certain beauty advertisement which the commission holds to be palpably fraudulent.

The general present tendency of the federal trade commission is to devote itself to strict matters of trade practice such as alleged mislabelling of goods, rather than to enter the field of anti-trust prosecutions, which it undertook to do for some years.

Itn the trade practice field it is scoring additional success in its campaign for standardized practice in labelling furniture, several additional firms in recent weeks having subscribed to its trade practice proposal of calling veneered wood furniture by names including the term veneered, to differentiate plainly from solid wood products. A few companies objecting to the new rules may yet bring this question also to court.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE.

Rockwell had gone limp in his chair. The color fled from his face, leaving only sweat and a look of fright. His cigarette had gone out. He dropped it, from limp fingers, into an ash-tray. He was muttering something about "absurdity" and "no case at all." Finally, with a wry and painful smile, he got this out: "Well, I seem to have nothing to say about this. But my God, I'm not a murderer. You both know I'm not."

"There are different sorts of murders," said Fred. "Will you marry her tonight?"

"Why—yes, if it's—yes, I'm perfectly willing to do that."

"Understand, you don't make any

Central American trips—not this season! You stick right here and take decent care of this girl. Is that clear?"

"Why, that's—well, yes, I agree to that."

"All right." Fred's tension was not relaxed, however. "We'd better get right along, Bee. The parson will be waiting. We'll pick up a taxi. And as for you Rockwell, just one thing more: I've kept my temper up to now. I haven't told you what I think of you. For the girl's sake, I'm willing to do everything possible to save your face in this mess. But if you don't go through with it right, if you pull any more of that selfish stuff, I'm going to give myself the satisfaction of smashing in that pretty face of yours so it won't be recognizable for a long, long time."

Arthur, up now, made as if to bridle and face Fred out on that point, but the courage was all gone from him. Even the vanity which had fed his cool presence and his complacent brain as if it were an inexhaustible spring of life, was evaporated now into thin mist. Meekly he went out with them and drove off to his wedding.

Arthur's manner, or a thin shell that resembled it, revived somewhat for the wedding. Fred, standing at the foot of the bed closely watching him, concluded that the man was acting, and even in a perhaps perverse sense taking pride in his performance. A crushed spirit seeking some obscure avenue in which a rag or two of self-respect could exhibit themselves. He bent tenderly over to help Bee explain to the suffering girl. And after the solemn sentences of the clergyman, and his own and Delia's responses (hers hardly more than a gasp), he bent reverently down and kissed her lips. Fred turned away at that.

Louise and Bee packed a suitcase then. They were leaving Arthur there in the rooms for the time, until Delia might be moved or—but they didn't voice the alternative. Fred carried the case across the Square to Delia's room. The three climbed the stairs silently together, and let themselves in with the key Bee had slipped into her bag when she'd taken Delia in the morning. The room was in disorder, just as it had been left. While the girls moved about hanging clothing away and putting things to rights, Fred looked about for the bottle. He found it on the bed, under a pillow, where the girl must have hidden it in her confusion—a small brown bottle with roughened edges, labeled "Poison." "Hm," mused Fred, "—corrosive sublimate. That's what I rather thought." That's what I rather thought." And then, to Bee: "This isn't the strongest evidence in the world, but you girls had better hold on to it until we can put through the other ceremony with a proper license. It seemed to work pretty well on Rockwell today when I held it over him."

Lou, at a small desk in the corner, held up an envelope to the light from the one small window. "Here's her father's address," she said—adding, to no purpose: "He's in the grain and feed business in Worcester. Perhaps you'd better wire him, Fred."

"Let's get some dinner first," put in Bee, who felt that she couldn't stay in this room an unnecessary minute. "Do you realize that it's only seven o'clock. I really think we'd better think this whole thing over, talk it out."

Fred nodded. "That's the conclusion I've been coming to, Bee. I had a little talk with the doctor. He thinks she'll live a couple of days, anyway. And before that time, he thinks he'll have some pretty definite guess as to her chances."

"You see," said Bee, "maybe we can work out a reasonable story. What I can't bear is the thought of bringing those poor people into this awful situation—as it looks now.

English Metropolis Boasts 88 Women Funeral Furnishers

LONDON — There are 88 women funeral furnishers in England, eight of whom practice in London, according to a recent census.

It is stated the women funeral furnishers are warmly welcomed by women faced with bereavement, many of whom find it much easier to deal with one of their own sex than with men furnishers.

Six of the London women first entered the business during the world war, when their husbands were on military service. The dean of the London women furnishers is Mrs. J. G. Thomas, who has an establishment in the Deptford district, on the East Side.

"I consider that funeral furnishing is essentially a business where women might help women more than men, especially in the case of the death of children," Mrs. Thomas said in an interview.

Flow of Mud From Mount Shasta Causes Heavy Damage Loss

REDDING, Cal. — Mount Shasta, the highest peak in California, is again showing a disposition to change its geographical location.

Every year, as soon as the hot weather begins a flow of mud from the glacier on the eastern slope of the mountain begins to make its way across country, causing serious damage. Two years ago the flow of mud was particularly serious.

The stream of mud is again devastating the surrounding country, and efforts to divert its flow into the McCloud river have so far proven fruitless. The flow of mud is expected to continue until the freezing weather comes.

P. R. R. HEAD KEEPS BUSINESS RECORD

But few members of the vast traveling public using the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad know that it has an organization of capable men who possess information concerning the possibilities for manufacturing plants along its rails that is unsurpassed by any other agency.

For the purpose of acquiring those interested with the facilities for furnishing this information, an attractive poster has been prepared, a copy of which will be placed shortly in each passenger station on the System. It is entitled "Locate Your Factory on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Broadway of Commerce." The center piece is a photograph of a typical industrial district along the Pennsy.

E. J. Israel, J., who is recognized as one of the livest of the live wires in the Central region, is in charge of the Mid-West industrial department, with headquarters in Pittsburgh.

The work of Industrial Agent Israel includes the suggesting of sites and available buildings suitable for practically every kind of manufacture and warehousing. He has a veritable mine of valuable information ready to be tapped for the asking.

Doing almost unlimited research work in his line, Mr. Israel has at the present time a record of more than 700 sites and buildings available for manufacturing and warehousing. His files contain the proximity of these various sites to natural resources, including both power, water, light and fuel and other facilities.

The principal object of the industrial agent is to give the prospective manufacturer as complete data as is possible about the particular site in which he is interested to enable him to select the most strategic point along the Pennsylvania Lines for his business.

Other industrial agents are located at St. Louis, Chicago and Philadelphia.

CLEAR VISION AND COMFORT
GLASSES ARE IMPORTANT
Do you remember Theodore Roosevelt's story of how he discovered when he was thirteen years old that he could not see well?
He complained to his father, who provided glasses.
In his "Autobiography," published by Macmillan, he wrote:
"I had no idea how beautiful the world was until I got those spectacles.
"I had been a clumsy and awkward little boy, and while much of my clumsiness and awkwardness was doubtless due to general characteristics, a good deal of it was due to the fact that I could not see and yet was wholly ignorant that I was not seeing.
"The recollection of this experience gives me a keen sympathy with those who are trying in our public schools and elsewhere to remove the physical causes of deficiency in children, who are often unjustly blamed for being obstinate or unambitious, or mentally stupid."
T. R. was not unique in his defects. Examinations by the American Red Cross nurses in Pennsylvania schools showed that one child in every six or seven was suffering from a physical defect serious enough to retard normal growth and development.
Watch your own child and let your eye sight specialist examine his eyes. Even so small a thing as a pair of glasses may open a new world for the youngster.

Dr. Ella J. Fifield, supreme medical examiner of the Woman's Benefit Association, Port Huron, Mich., is urging that every child entering school this fall should receive a careful physical examination.

NEW EMBASSY IS NOW READY FOR HOUGHTONS

Ambassador Will Take Up Residence After Vacation.

STAFF IS BUSY

New Structure is Gift of Late J. Pierpont Morgan.

WASHINGTON. — America's new and palatial Embassy in the Prince's Gate district of London will be opened for business and as the residence of the United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James when Ambassador Houghton returns from his summer vacation about two months hence.

The Ambassador and his family have gone north to Haddingdonshire, where they have taken the famous historical estate of Lennoxlove for the summer season. While he is away his private effects will be moved from Crewe House to the new Embassy, and it is anticipated that he will take up residence there when he returns.

Gift of Morgan.

The opening of the new Embassy will afford some considerable financial relief to Ambassador Houghton, it is anticipated. Since he came from Berlin it is stated that he has been paying $200 a week, or over $10,000 a year, for Crewe House as a residence, which takes about another $50 a week to run.

The new Embassy, which is the gift of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is now practically completed. It is made out of two houses in Prince's Gate, and as a whole looks very imposing. One enters a magnificient grand hall, with a cool marble floor and a fine sweeping grand staircase leading to other spacious rooms and salons. The drawing rooms of both houses have been combined and overlook the magnificent panorama of Hyde Park.

Changes Cost $350,000

Interior structural changes and decorations have cost $350,000. The color scheme of the various salons has been carried out in a wonderful gold and scarlet effect. There are fifty-two rooms altogether, including a delightful suite for Mrs. Houghton, comprising a bedroom, boudoir, and sewing-room, and the Ambassador's own special suite.

American business men in England and others having business with the Embassy, are pleased that the United States is at last to have an Embassy commensurate with the resources of the American Republic.

BANDIT WHITTEMORE DENIED STAY OF EXECUTION BY JUSTICE HOLMES

'Candy' Kid" Gunman Will Pay Death Penalty Tomorrow for Murder of Maryland Prison Guard.

BEVERLY FARMS, Mass., Aug. 12—Last hope of saving Richard Reese Whittemore, "Candy Kid" gunman, from the hangman's noose in Maryland penitentiary went aglimmering this afternoon when Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court, at his summer home here denied a stay of execution on a writ of error to G. L. Pendleton, negro lawyer, who had hurried here from Baltimore.

Beverly farms was a strange setting for the final appeal of a criminal's life. Justice Holmes has been resting in his summer home. And as the legal battle came before him today sub-debs of the country's society pass the house on their way to the bathing beach or the golf links.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12. — Richard Reese Whittemore, the boy who is reputed to have made a fortune in robbery and squandered it in high living, pays on the gallows at Maryland penitentiary early tomorrow for a hectic career of crime.

Though his counsel, G. L. Pendleton, has gone to New England in an effort to obtain a stay from one of the federal supreme court justices spending the summer in that section, prison officials went ahead today with plans for the hanging at 12:01 A. M. on Friday, the 13th. They anticipate that nothing will stop the execution.

To meet Pendleton's latest move, Rowland K. Adams, deputy state's attorney, also has gone to Boston. He will oppose any appeal which Pendleton lays before any of the justices to delay the hanging.

It is believed that Pendleton went to see Justices Oliver Wendell Holmes at Beverly farms, or Edward Sanford at Nantucket, or Louis D. Brandeis at Chatham, Massachusetts.

As his four of death approaches, Whittemore smokes countless cigarettes, often lighting a new one from the dying ashes of another. He has shown little outward sign of concern over the hanging. He is bearing up well.

His wife, Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, the "Tiger girl," and his father, Rawlings V. Whittemore, will be allowed to visit him but once before night. While the elder Whittemore has no pass, he said he would witness the hanging.

"I want my son to know that his old man stuck by him to the end," he declared.

But Warden Brady declared this morning that none but pass holders would be permitted inside the death chamber. That goes for Whittemore, senior, he explains.

"When tickets were being issued, Mr. Whittemore never sought to obtain one, and now it is too late," said Brady. "I'll issue no more to anybody."

Mrs. Whittemore said she couldn't bear to see the hanging.

Extra police will be stationed about the prison to keep all persons at a distance of four blocks.

3,000 WITNESS LODGE DEGREE

Decoration of Chivalry Conferred at I. O. O. F. Outing.

With every head bared, 3,000 people witnessed the conferring of the decoration of Chivalry upon a class of 10 women by Major General Fred H. A. Hahn, of Toledo, Commander of the Patriarchs Militant of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at the county fair grounds at 6 o'clock last night.

This was the closing feature of the first annual state picnic of lodges arranged by a committee of which J. D. Caldwell of Lisbon was chairman and Miss Ethel McCain of East Liverpool was secretary.

The majority of visitors were from the northeastern part of the state.

Music throughout the day was rendered by the Girls' band from the Odd Fellow Home at Springfield. The band arrived at Lisbon Tuesday afternoon, and Tuesday evening gave a concert in the Public Square, and Wednesday the girls were entertained by Lisbon people.

The class was composed of Mary Kille, Salem; Ora Sanor, Piney Fork; Maude Williams, Niles; Isabelle Cartwright, Niles, Lillian Cox, Canfield; Carrie Swartz, Salem; Mrs. Finnigan, Salineville; Mabel Arnold, Salem and Ola Shriver, Salem.

Ladies assisting Major Hahn in the exemplification of this degree were: Mrs. Geo. Schloser, Mrs. Wm. Angeman, Mrs. Lauren Souers and Mrs. Perry D. Eberly, all of Canton; Miss Nettie McBane, East Liverpool; Thalia Idleman, Youngstown; Mrs. Josephine Hahn, Toledo and little Ada Shriver of Salem.

During the ceremony two selections were sung by a mixed quartet from Concordia Lodge of Odd Fellows, Lisbon.

The degree work took place on the race track immediately in front of the grand stand. Within the oval of the race track several hundred automobiles were lined up against the fence, and the grandstand was crowded. The Girls' band was placed in the rear of the grand stand over the main entrance. While the canton was entering the race track the band played a march, and during a part of the ceremony the National anthem was rendered.

The class of women and those assisting Major Hahn were all dressed in white.

Search for Suspect In Mellett Slaying Spreads to East

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Search for one of the suspects in the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton, Ohio, publisher who was shot down July 16 spread to Syracuse today when Chief of Police Martin L. Cadin was asked to look for Patrick Eugene McDermott, 27, believed to be in this city.

A reward of $27,000 has been offered for the capture of McDermott.

Information that the suspect may be in Syracuse was received from Acting Chief of Police Earl Hexamer of Canton. The Canton chief appeals to Chief Cadin asking him to make every effort through his department here to determine whether McDermott is in this section.

PRIMARY VOTE CHANGE URGED

W. B. Hill Speaks on Proposal at Kiwanis Meet.

A plea for approval of the amendment to be submitted at the general election next November to change the Ohio primary system, was voiced by Attorney Walter B. Hill, at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in the Larkins' annex, Market street, today.

Hill asserted the present system is a failure and that fewer voters were taking part in the nominations each year. The old convention system, where candidates were selected by delegates, was better than the present plan, he declared.

C. C. Cline presided at the meeting which was attended by about 40 members. Dr. George E. Lewis, Chester, spoke briefly about his recent trip to Yellowstone National Park. Fred George, Republican nominee for county treasurer, thanked members of the club for their interest in his candidacy.

John Morton discussed the proposed visit of the club to the Clarkson grange. A chicken supper will be served by the grange women.

Rev. Bert R. Johnson condemned the pollution in the Ohio river and urged that the United States conserve its forests and other natural resources as Canada does.

The longer prenatal period of the human race provided two extra months for the development of the superior brain, and also got rid of that hair young apes bring into the world, and never get rid of. All this is shocking to the convinced fundamentalist.

Although Miss Ederle's plans call for her returning to the United States on August 21, it is hoped that she will delay her return in order to participate in a swimming meet in the Neckar river, near here, on August 22.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 — A further decline in General Motors to 198 in the early trading today, which also had the effect of unsettling the industrial stock list generally, resulted from a severe assault on the market by the bearish professionals.

Most of the speculative leaders started the day at high price levels, General Motors recovering three points of its losses at its opening price of 206, after a good volume sold at 206¼ to 207. Then the flood gates of selling were opened and the stock declined to 198½, recovering almost as spectacularly to 203¼. United States Steel, Dupont and other prominent industrials also declined.

Leaders in the rally in the second hour were the railroad stocks, the coppers and equipments. Atchison, in the lead of the rails, sold up four points at 143¼, while American Smelting did equally as well as the leader of the copper stocks. Baldwin Locomotive continued buoyant, while in the specialty group Industrial Alcohol and Allied Chemical carried their rallies to slightly higher price levels.

When call money renewed at 4½ per cent, Wall street accepted this as an evidence that the money market would not firm up over the week-end. Cotton continued to move downward, while grain and commodity markets were generally steady.

100 Seats to Cost $110 Each at Earl Carroll's Vanities

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—One hundred seats in the first few rows of Earl Carroll's theatre will cost exactly $110 each on the night when the Vanities open there late this month.

In announcing the price, Carroll stated:

"I was influenced by the boasts of patrons at previous high priced openings that they had paid fabulous sums for their tickets. I reasoned, therefore, that there are many more than a hundred theatre-goers who can pay such a figure without embarrassment."

Jack Dempsey Wins Another Round in Fight for License

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Jack Dempsey won another round today in his battle with the New York state athletic commission but the final decision is not yet in sight.

The commission voted, two to one, in favor of resolution by Commissioner George E. Brower, stating that as Jack Dempsey had agreed to meet Gene Tunney, he should be granted a license by the license committee. The resolution stated that the champion is now in good standing and the license committee should be urged to act at once.

Commissioner William Muldoon voted with Commissioner Brower while Commissioner James A. Farley voted against him.

Commissioner Brower was asked, after the meeting, how the commission would force the license committee to act.

"We can't," frankly answered the commissioner, "I think though that the people of New York City should take some action to force the committee to grant Dempsey a license. Next Monday may be too late. The committee should be forced to meet tomorrow."

Five Priests Slain

Pascul Diaz, acting archbishop of Mexico, said in a statement.

Diaz admitted that all attempts thus far to mediate between the church and the government have been failures. Several volunteer peace-makers, he said, were authorized by the church to try their hands because of the church's disinclination to pass up any chance, however small, for the re-establishment of harmony in the republic.

Accept Challenge to Debate

The Mexican Federation of Labor announced today its conditional acceptance of the challenge issued by the National League for Religious Defense to a series of four debates on the religious situation.

Ricardo Trevino, general secretary of the federation, stipulated that the Catholic orators must present themselves with full documentary proof of the statements they made and must be prepared to answer charges against the clergy from the speakers' platform, or else be prepared to admit the correctness of the charges.

"These debates are no pastime," he said. "But deadly serious events for the purpose of enlightening and formulating public opinion both at home and abroad."

Two Escape Death

ran who was driving heard a whistle, and stopped to let a train pass on the first track. As he was about to cross the second track, another train bore down upon the automobile. Realizing that it was too late to stop the car with th brakes, Cochran stepped on the gas and at the same time turned parallel to the rails and in the opposite direction of that of the train.

The automobile skimmed past the railroad cars for a short distance but a hill rising suddenly before it threw the machine against the speeding cars, tilting it so that the top struck first. The body of the automobile was literally ground off down to the steel frame. The chassis overturned, and the two occupants were buried under a heap of debris. The steering wheel broke off, but Cochran, although remaining in the driver's seat, somehow avoided being pierced by the broken steering column and sustained as his most serious injury a cut requiring seven stitches. Potts was only shaken up. Both continued to Atlantic City by train.

Cochran and Potts explained their failure to b warned of the second train's approach by stating that its whistle probably was merged with that of the first train.

Pete Latzo, Ring Champion, Plunges Through Window

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 12. — Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion, narrowly escaped serious injury at his home here and will be out of the ring for at least a month, it was learned today.

Latzo was putting a screen in a window and was standing on a step ladder when he lost his balance and plunged face forward through the glass in the window. He put up his right arm to protect himself, he said, and a jagged piece of glass inflicted a wound that required three stitches.

Latzo's bout with Joe Simmonich, of Butte, Mont., at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., next Tuesday, has been called off and indications are that the champion will not fight Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, this summer.

QUIZ TROOPERS IN HALL-MILLS MURDER PROBE

Seek Information About Missing State Policeman.

BRIBERY HINTED

Believe Man Knows Facts in New Jersey Crime.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 12.—State troopers who served with Henry L. Dickman, who vanished during the first investigation into the Hall-Mills murders in 1922, will be questioned today regarding reports that the missing state policeman was mysteriously paid a large sum to hide knowledge he had unearthed.

Dickman is believed to be the "Henry Lester Dieckman" serving a year's imprisonment at Alcatraz Island in San Francisco bay for desertion from the army. Whether he will be brought back to New Jersey to be interrogated will depend largely on the result of today's revelations.

Following Dickman's disappearance, it was widely reported that he had learned the identity of the murderers of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, New Brunswick rector, and the clergyman's sweetheart, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

Owing to the wide ramifications of the case which now extend to San Francisco, Senator Simpson, special prosecutor, today clamped the lid of secrecy on the investigation. Names of witnesses were hidden from reporters. "Leaks," which it is said, tipped off prospective witnesses, were given as one of the reasons.

Senator Simpson said that tomorrow will see the climax of the investigation, when it will be decided whether enough evidence exists to bring the accusation of the dual murders pending against Frances Stevens Hall, the rector's widow, before a grand jury.

In the event of a negative decision, it was intimated, dropping of the case against Mrs. Hall will be recommended.

At noon the fire was still raging and fears for surrounding buildings were entertained.

Wounded in Breast, But Rouges Before Trip to Hospital

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 12.—"Just wait a minute, officers, I'm not going to any hospital until I fix myself up a bit."

So the "officers" waited while Mrs. Lula Gersbacher, 40, with a bullet wound in her left breast, completed the beauty parlor act.

That was at 9 o'clock last night. Today the woman was not in a serious condition, physicians having dressed the wound when she finally got to General hospital.

She said the shooting was accidental. A note found on her dressing table read:

"Please notify my old pal, Marguerite Saxton, Hotel Arling, Hot Springs, Ark. Thanks to everyone. I am tired. Good luck. God bless the whole bunch.

(Signed) "LULA."

LOS ANGELES' FLIGHT DELAYED

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 12.—The proposed flight of the dirigible Los Angeles today was delayed by poor visibility, Lieut. Commander V. E. Rosendahl said.

The dirigible was to continue its work of radio compass calibrations and it was expected that it would pass over Philadelphia in its flight. Later, the Los Angeles was to moor to the mast of the tender Patoka in Chesapeake Bay.

"We are all ready to go," said Rosendahl, "and if the conditions improve later in the day, we'll get away."

CENTRAL OHIO HELD IN GRIP OF HEAT WAVE

Northern Section Cool as Southern Zone Swelters.

TWO DROWNINGS

Columbus Reports 98 and Middleton 96 at Noon.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—An August heat wave today held the central and southern sections of the state in its grip, while northern Ohio was enjoying comparatively cool weather.

It was 74 degrees in Cleveland at 1 o'clock this afternoon, but 98 at Columbus at that time and 96 at Middletown. Due to showers the heat was tempered at Canton which reported 80. Other reports were: Mansfield, 80; Marion, 87; Lima, 92; Cincinnati, 77, and Newark, 88.

Middletown reported a maximum temperature of 100 degrees and one drowning yesterday. Youngstown, while not reporting a very high temperature, also had a drowning.

Other high temperatures in the state yesterday were Cleveland, 79; Columbus, 96; Dayton, 92; Canton, 92; Lima, 98; Cincinnati, 94; Marion, 93; Mansfield, 92, and Newark, 91.

Minres Found Alive

home. Watson showed the spirit of the men when he announced:

"Make no arrangements to ride me home—give me my mule and I'll ride there."

Aside from the lack of food and the feeling of uncertainty of their release, the men said they suffered no serious ill effects from their imprisonment. Two small streams run through the section of the level where they were confined and this furnished them with plenty of water.

Hundreds in Rescue Work.

The rescue was affected after hundreds of men from nearby mines worked tirelessly day and night for a week attempting to reach the "tomb" of the men.

Under the direction of A. M. Shelby, an engineer, drilling was started at several points in an effort to get air and food to the men. A new shaft also was being sunk and pumps were operated from the main shaft in an effort to clear the level of the debris.

The rescue was in line with the prediction of veteran miners. These veterans surveyed the passages of the mine and said they were convinced that air was reaching the men and that unless they were caught beneath the mass of mud and rock they would be found alive.

Freeman Cobb, brother of Randolph and brother-in-law of James, was the one who reached the men first. He had gone down into the mine early this morning with a lamp and was exploring the level, when the figures of two of the men came crawling through the muck towards him.

A half hour later all the men were brought safely through the main shaft.

Records of Mine Entombments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Only 20 men in American mining history have been entombed alive longer than the five men rescued this morning from the Zinc and Spar company mine at Salem, Ky., according to bureau of mine records today.

Whereas, the men at Salem lived 153 hours in the closed mine, 20 men entombed in Cherry mine, Ill., in 1909, came out alive after 169½ hours. The number who perished in Cherry mine, however, totaled more than 290.

One man lived 30 days entombed in the Courieres mine disaster in France in 1906, after 1,100 of his fellow miners had died, records showed. This was the longest entombment on record. He subsisted on scraps of food found in the mine.

TWO OHIOANS ARE DROWNED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 12.—Harold Jackson, 11, was drowned today in Lake Glacier, Mill Creek park. He was seized with cramps while swimming in deep water. It was the third drowning in the lake this summer.

MIDDLETON, O., Aug. 12.—The treacherous currents of Miami river near the Poasttown bridge have claimed another victim. George Flack, 43, of this city, lost his life while seeking relief in the river from last night's heat. Robert Spears and H. C. Moore were almost drowned trying to rescue Flack. Spears was unconscious for an hour afterwards. Flack's body was recovered by his brother, Frank.

Renewal of Agreement

ing conditions and wage increases in some departments of the general ware industry.

Among the officials of both organizations, the opinion prevails that the agreement in effect for the past two years will be continued with perhaps minor changes. One of the principal reasons cited for this belief is foreign competitions. It is pointed out that Japan, Germany, Czecho-Slovakia and England are selling increasing quantities of general ware pottery in the American market, and that some of the countries enjoy a low tariff, due to valuation of the merchandise for tariff purposes on the basis of prices abroad, where exchange rates reduce the value.

Boy Dies of Burns.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12.—Douglas Miller, 3, died early today of burns received Sunday when stove exploded in the child's home.

BERNSTORFF IS CENTER OF ANOTHER ROW

Once German Ambassador to U. S. Heckled in Wales.

LONDON DIVIDED

Agitators are Ejected While Speaker is Cheered.

LONDON.—Count Bernstorff, Germany's last Imperial Ambassador to the United States, and now one of the leading diplomats of the German Republic, has become the center of a row which threatens to disrupt the League of Nations Union of Great Britain.

As president of the German League of Nations Union, Bernstorff attended and addressed a meeting at Aberystwyth, Wales, of the International Federation of League of Nation societies. The meeting was marked by imprecations hurled at the kaiser's former ambassador by one or two persons in the audience, but the agitators were promptly ejected, and Bernstorff was given three cheers by the assembled delegates.

This, however, was not the end of Bernstorff's troubles in Britain, for Sir Valentine Chirol, the journalist and author, who is chairman of the influential Chelsea branch of the League of Nations Union, immediately took up the cudgel against Bernstorff, declaring that he knew him "of old as one of the ablest instruments of German aggressive Imperialism."

Disputes Arises.

He declared that to permit the ex-Ambassador to appear on a platform in England under the aegis of the League of Nations Union was "little short of an outrage on international decency and must necessarily tend to create a strong reaction against the movement for reconciliation with Germany."

Defending Count Bernstoroff, Professor Gilbert Murray, chairman of the British League of Nations Union, said that it would be improper for the British Union to dictate to the German society what president it should elect or what representative it should send to this country.

To Chirols' statement that Bernstorff was "closely associated in the minds of Englishmen with the sinking of the Lusitania, not to speak of the plots and deeds of violence notoriously engineered by his Military and Naval attaches at Washington." Murray replied that Bernstorff's policy was to prevent a breach between Germany and the United States, and that he strongly opposed unrestricted submarine warfare.

Urges Friendliness.

"It is clear," said Murray, "if we are to have any effective League of Nations we must have an amnesty in the matter of war charges and a truce from those angry memories which every nation can summon up only too easily."

Maintaining that he represented the fellings of a large number of people, Sir Valentine has refused to accept Murray's view, insisting that Bernstorff should have been informed that he would be persona non grata in Great Britain, and has resigned from the League of Nations Union. Professor Murray, meanwhile, is anxiously trying to patch up the quarrel.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

This department is one place where all the questions from those of the child to those of his elders are answered with care and dispatch. The mother who wants to know about the latest styles in sweaters, the boy who wants to know how to make a bird house, or the man who wants specific instructions about using concrete around the home are all given the same degree of expert instruction and information. We can share only a small part of these interesting questions with our readers but we conduct an intimate, personal service by mail. Send your question, with two cents in stamps for return postage, to the East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Is attendance at baseball games increasing or decreasing? G. V. N.

A. Figures for the current season have not been compiled. Last year the National league reported a large increase in attendance, while the American league teams played to 68,000 less than in 1924.

Q. Was the late George Washington Cable a journalist? H. H. T.

A. Cable was an accountant before his contributions to the New Orleans Picayune won him a place on the staff of that paper. Later he resumed his profession as an accountant until 1879 when he decided to devote himself entirely to literary work.

Q. Where is the headquarters of the American Historial Association? W. W.

A. Room 1140 Woodward Building, Washington, D. C.

Q. How much building was done in Florida last year? N. S. M.

A. Construction expenditures totaling $225,000,000 were recorded in Florida in 1925.

Q. Did the Indians communicate with each other at night by flaming arrows? N. J.

A. James Mooney gives the following regarding shooting a flaming arrow at night as a signal: "Methods of setting fire to an enemy's camp or fortified village by means of lighted combustibles attached to arrows were in general use down to a recent period. but the statement by one author that the Sioux had an elaborate system of signalling at night by means of fiery arrows requires confirmation."

Q. How many calories are there in watermelon? L. A.

A. The average number of calories in the edible portion of watermelon is 140 per pound.

"DARK ANGEL" AT AMERICAN

Wyndham Standing, who appears as Gerald Shannon in the George Fitzmaurice production, "The Dark Angel," the First National picture featuring Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky at the American theatre is a native of London.

He was educated at Charterhouse and Dublin university, soon thereafter taking up a stage career. He appeared with Sir Henry Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, Sir Herbert Berbohm Tree and Sir Charles Ingraham and in productions of Comstock and Gest, William A. Brady and Winthrop Ames in London and New York. "Ave Maria," "The Iron Trail," "The Bride's Play," "Hypocrisy," "The Isle of Conquest," "Rose of the World," "Law of the Land," "Witness for the Defense," "The Temperamental Wife," "The Miracle of Love," "Eyes of the Soul," "Earthbound," "Smilin Through" and "The Gold Diggers" were his most recent picture appearances.

He has just retuned from an extended English engagement and also made some pictures upon the continent during his absencce.

In "The Dark Angel" Standing has a most sympathetic role, that of an altogether gentlemanly and honorable rival of Ronald Colman, for the hand of dainty Vilma Banky. She is the charming Hungarian player recently brought over from Budapest by Samuel Goldwyn.

Mrs. Jane Jones, who occupied the smallest house in Great Britain, died at Conway recently in her diminutive home, which was six feet wide and ten feet deep.

More than 1,100 pianos and pianolas were sent from America to New Zealand in the past year.

License Committee Will Not Act Today On Champ's Request

Col. Phelan Declines Brower's Invitation To Special Meeting

Won't Get Together Again Until Next Week, He Says; in Meantime, Delay is Hurting Dempsey, Both Mentally and Physically.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The merry run-around that Jack Dempsey is getting in New York will be continued today when the state athletic commission will meet with the idea of paving the way for the champion to get his license but the license committee will not be there to give it to him.

This fact was made known today when Col. John J. Phelan, chairman of the license committee, informed the writer that he had declined George E. Brower's invitation to be present at a special meeting, called with the idea of placing the Dempsey-Tunney match definitely on the books. Col. Phelan declined to say why he would not be present.

"No reason at all," he said, airily. "We have had our meeting this week and will not call another until next week, probably Monday. The question of Dempsey's license can be taken up again then. The commission and my committee have been meeting separately for some weeks. I plan to keep this program in effect."

Won't Tell Plans.

He refuses to commit himself as to what action he would take when the matter did come before him. So did Tex Rickard and Gene Normile, speaking for the champion, both refusing to anticipate the situation by stating where they would take the bout in the event that it was definitely turned down here. They have Philadelphia, Baltimore and Jersey City in mind.

That, however, is beyond the point, which is that all this hocuspocus and rabbit-out-of-the-sleeve business has done the heavyweight champion practically no good. The writer would say, offhand, that the delay at this end has set Dempsey back two weeks, mentally if not physically.

Round-eyed experts who have stood about in whispering groups as Dempsey works out between flat-footing at the Flatiron building, say the champion looks great. I say that what his three year layoff has failed to do to him, this run-around here quite possibly will achieve.

When they stood him outside the commission offices for four hours on Tuesday, they tacitly declared an open season on Jack Dempsey for all the saps in town. Hedged in by Joe Windmill and kindred human ailments, he was the prey of every pest who happened along.

They brought him back yesterday to be mauled and hauled by souvenir hunters and all the rest of the I-was-there guys. Add to this the mental blackjacking involved in delaying the issue of a license and your have a picture of the heavyweight champion in training while his opponent gets the benefit of a quiet, effective day in camp.

May Ask Postponement.

It all narrows down to this: Tex Rickard is likely to ask today for a postponement of the Dempsey-Tunney match from September 16 to September 23, for the dual reason that a week's delay will react to the dual benefit of his champion and his box office.

First, however, Tex will make certain of Dempsey's license and may become so enamored of the accomplishment that he will forget other business, even that very vital matter of a $40 "top" for tickets.

The procedure today, as I understand it, is for Rickard and Dempsey to go before the commission with a Dempsey-Tunney contract, which will fulfill the rules of the board. It will be signed by Tunney but Dempsey's signature must wait until they turn up that hole card and produce the dear old license.

You know how those things are. Everything must be done in a businesslike and orderly manner.

The boy can then leave for his training camp, a wiser but possibly not a better man for his experience.

Of course, Jack Dempsey may defend his title successfully and Tex Rickard may make money on the transaction. But in neither case will it be the fault of the men who run boxing in this state.

Champ, Challenger Exchange Grins and Plan September Mauling Fracas

Maybe. Perhaps. Also—if. At any rate it is just possible that Gene Tunney, left, and Jack Dempsey will meet in the Yankee Stadium sometime about September 16. They are seen above conversing amiably in the office of the N. Y. State License Commission, where Gene and Jack found more difficulty. However, business of striking an heroic pose, the fight must go on!

INSIDE Ggolf

By CHESTER HORTON,

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Thinking ahead of the swing is another mental aspect of golf that, as a habit, keeps many struggling players in the duffer class without their ever knowing what causes them so many upsets. Thinking ahead of things is this: When you prepare to execute a shot, you first make a quick mental survey of what you are to do in the matter of projecting the ball. Usually this implies that it is to be sent straight ahead. From that point, forget the shot as a shot and think of the swing. Visualize a rhythmic, easy swing of the club through the ball and think all the time in the terms of the swing. If, while preparing for the swing, and making it, you are thinking of the projection of the ball and what it is going to do, you are thinking ahead of things.

Letter Men Advance Training Camp Fund

Will Contribute $100 as Starter Toward Amount Necessary to Finance Blue and White's Visit Next Month to Pine Ridge.

THE East Liverpool Letter Men's association, organized several years ago for the purpose of assisting in the development and encouragement of athletics in the high school, held its first meeting of the year last night in the high school building.

Plans were discussed for the association's participation in the Blue and White's football campaign which is not very far way, a matter of a month or so, to be exact, and the association took a forward step in gathering up $100 which will be donated to Coach Kidder to aid in defraying training camp expenses.

The letter men can prove a powerful factor in placing East Liverpool football on a higher plane, where, by all means, it should be, considering the wealth of material which ordinarily the school has to select from, and its various athletic conveniences.

The association's action in digging down into its pocket and bringing out a century note is the kind of help that counts, help of the tangible, concrete variety.

Although Coach Kidder has not taken inventory yet, there is no indication of any unusual lack of new football timber this fall to throw in between the veterans that were left over from last season, one of the problems that always bobs up in September, and which ready response from the incoming classes will go a long way toward solving.

The average high school coach has no bed of roses, although he usually draws a complete allotment of thorns. It's a big job and all the help that the letter men can provide will be of no small value to the Blue and White mentor. And Kidder, well qualified as a gridiron tactician and leader, will appreciate the organization's services.

The letter men have capable officers and directors and their efforts should go a long way toward boosting school athletics.

Give Up O. & P. Ball.

Acting on the belief that Youngstown baseball fans are fed up on O. & P. league ball, directors of the Youngstown General Tires plan to cancel as many of the remaining league contests at home as possible and book in independent attractions.

The new policy starts off with the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game against the Tires next Sunday. The Philadelphia Nationals will return to Idora park August 22 to make up for two unexpected trimmings they received from Youngstown and Jimmy Uchrinsko last year. More big league attractions are in the making for September.

Ruth's Comeback.

When one discusses the remarkable comeback of Babe Ruth this season one shouldn't limit that discussion to Babe's batting, including his home run efforts. For, in addition to slugging close to his old time form Ruth is fielding brilliantly. This of course is partly due to his good physical condition, but in a greater measure to his desire to make his comeback complete—and the new contract a fat one.

In a recent game against the White Sox Ruth was given credit for making one of the greatest catches of his career. Willie Kamm slammed what looked like a triple or homer to left field in the Chicago park. Ruth took a look at it, swung and raced away with his back to the ball. Turning, he saw that the ball was going over his head. He leaped high in the air and got it one-handed—in his glove.

KNIGHTS DEFEAT FERRY CLUB, 7-4

Knights of Columbus baseball team defeated the Smiths Ferry outfit in a well played game last evening at Columbian park. The score was 7 to 4.

150-Mile Buckeye Classic to Open New Akron Track

$5,000 in Prizes Hung Up for Labor Day Event.

AKRON, Aug. 12.—The eyes of the auto racing world will be turned towards Akron on Labor Day when many of the nation's most noted speed kings will fight out a bitter duel with each other and fate on the new Akron-Cleveland Board Speedway which opens with the 150-mile Buckeye classic.

The race will be 150 miles in length necessitating 600 torturous curves and covering 300 stamina-testing laps, unless inclement weather should put in its unwelcome appearance. Five thousand dollars in prizes is the lure that will bring together many renowned racers.

Director Nied is receiving entries with each mail and announcements will be made of this list in the future.

The building of the track and grandstands are being hurried along and resemble a busy little city with its many workmen. Already most of the supporting framework for the saucer is in place and the heavy work for the grandstand is fastly being erected. Some of the board covering of the track is being laid to show the curious ones what the floor of the track will look like when completed. Grandstand A, now going up, is 600 feet long, seating 10,000 people with over 240 boxes.

Toronto Champs Want Games.

The championship team of the Toronto Industrial league wishes to book games with out of town teams, either at home or abroad, or both, preferably on Sundays. Fully equipped and uniformed, with real semi-pro players, this club would prove an attraction for many fans. For information write Forrest Richmond, president, Toronto, Ohio.

Miller Huggins Earns Right To Niche In Baseball Hall of Fame

CONCEDING that the New York Yankees have won the 1926 pennant in the American league Miller Huggins must be classed as the outstanding figure in that league—if not in baseball—today.

Looking at his case without any feeling of hysteria Huggins must be given a world of credit for transforming a disorganized seventh-place team into a flag winning combination in one season.

Several conditions have helped him of course. The remarkable comeback of Babe Ruth is the outstanding one. Ruth, after apparently facing the end of his career last fall, became once more the mainspring, the inspiration of the ball club—and in addition began to shine again as a home run hitter. His circuit clouts have run the ball games Huggins had prayed for while Ruth was hitting the high road of pleasure.

Ruth's success in holding to the path of rectitude has helped Huggins hold up the morale of the ball club.

The reversal of form shown by Urban Shocker—a dismal failure last year—has been more than a mere contributing factor. His comeback has been a brilliant one.

Herb Pennock's defiance of time—concerning which no one could even hazard a guess last spring—has helped.

But subtracting these factors from the discussion Huggins still belongs to the Miracle Man class because of his success in:

Rebuilding his infield at three points.

Plugging the gaps in that infield when Mark Koenig's slump and injuries to Joe Dugan forced changes.

The development of Lou Gehrig into a good first baseman.

The molding of Tony Lazzeri, Pacific Coast home run star, into a good second baseman.

That of Koenig, St. Paul infielder, into a brilliant shortstop.

The development of Earl Combs into a great outfielder.

The molding of Garland Braxton, rookie hurler, into a wonderful relief pitcher.

The molding of Pat Collins into a good catcher, after he had been shunted to the minors for a couple of years.

And most of all the instilling in the team the spirit to win. Huggins stated to me frankly last spring that one of his reasons for wrecking his old club and rebuilding it was because the old combination had lost the desire to "fight it out" for every game.

Huggins' feat in winning three American league pennants in a row doesn't stand out as brilliant as does his work of 1926. He had a team well constructed, with plenty of power and defensive strength to start that run. Babe Ruth might have furnished the necessary punch with any team that year—driving out the record breaking number of 59 home runs as he did.

The rise of the Hugman to the top at the start of Huggin's regime coincided too closely with Ruth's rise to fame to permit giving Huggins the maximum amount of credit there. This season, however, Huggins began his labors with Ruth an unknown quantity. Drastic methods invoked last season to enforce discipline in Ruth's case had shown the slugger his place in the scheme of things. To the list of Huggins' achievements then might be added his successful fight to bring Ruth to time by fair means or fines.

Weighing Miller Huggins as coldly as you will—and the public seems prone to do so—he must be ranked with George Stallings, John McGraw, Connie Mack and the others who have been classed as Miracle Men, Master Minders and just plain honest to goodness great managers.

TIGER NOT HURT BY FOUL BLOW

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—According to an announcement made by officials of Madison Square Garden today, Tiger Flowers, middleweight champion, was not seriously injured when struck an accidental low blow by Battling McCready in Atlanta on Tuesday. The Tiger, it was said, will be ready to defend the title again with Harry Greb, ex-champion, at the Garden on August 19.

The Toronto Golf club is to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary in September.

Ralott-Elton Revue Tops Bill At Ceramic For Three Days

Nine People Appear in High Class Production in Connection With Hammerstein — Tellegen Film, "Parisian Nights."

The Alex Ruloff and John Elton revue, a Spizzi vaudeville headliner featuring Mons Lucian Martin, world's youngest violinist, and the celebrated Spanish dancer, Ricardo Guerrero, with a dancing ensemble of six ballinas, tops the high class bill which opened a three day engagement at the Ceramic theatre today.

This company of nine people, which following record-breaking runs in San Francisco, Denver, Kansas City, Toronto and Montreal, Canada, theatres, appears in connection with the presentation of the feature picture, "Parisian Nights," starring Elaine Hammerstein and Lou Tellegen. This is a screen portrayal of the dazzling night life of the world's wickedest city. An Educational film, Lupino Lane in "His Private Life;" International News, Aesop's Fables and Lyman H. Howe also are on the picture program.

The Ruloff-Elton revue offers a repertoire of musical and dancing numbers, and sets off the program with pretty costumes and elaborate electrical effects.

Interpreted by a brilliant cast in which Elaine Hammerstein, Lou Tellegen and Renee Adoree are featured players and directed in the best suave and skillful manner of Al Santell, "Parisian Nights" proves a whale of a show, well-mounted, well-acted and of thrilling quality.

Miss. Hammerstein and Mr. Tellegen are particularly apt selections for the two leading characters; Adele, a young and beautiful America heiress who is studying sculpture in the French capital, and Jean, the intrepid young Apache leader with whom she falls in love. After repeated pleas Adele manages to gain Jean's consent to pose for the central figure in her marble masterpiece, for she feels that she has at last found the model for whom she has been so long looking. Taunted by his Apache compatriots with being a "rich woman's lap dog," Jean finally deserts the studio; but is sought out again in an underworld dive by Adele. Their intense love for each other leads them through many dangerous adventures, culminating in Jean's rescue of his beautiful patron from the Apache headquarters which are being stormed by the artillery.

Thrilling battles in the catacomb-like passages underneath Paris; the blowing up of the Apache stronghold by artillery fire; and Jean's dive into the dark waters of the Seine from a barred window with the unconscious form of Adele are high spots in a production replete with adventure.

Monument to Saviour Of Paris Dedicated; President Attends

PARIS.— General Gallieni, the saviour of Paris and the victor of von Kluck is commemorated in a monument which has been unveiled to his memory by the Maritime and Colonial League. The man who marshalled a thousand taxis to rush up to the Marne from Paris a French army is represented listening to the voice of Victory.

Gaston Doumergue, President of the Republic was present and others were Lord Crewe, the English Ambassador, Ambassador Herrick and many others of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies.

The statute is the work of Jean Boucher and bears on the pedestal an inscription bearing Gallieni's famous Order of the Day when the German army was approaching Paris:

"I have received the order to defend Paris that order I shall carry out to the end."

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The big-hearted Yankees tolled off two games in Washington, both by a score of 5 to 4, when Pennock and Hoyt failed to make the grade. Babe Ruth whacked his 37th homer and is six behind the record.

Bib Falk's fifth hit of the game, a home run, topped off a five run rally which gave the White Sox a 7 to 2 victory over Cleveland in the thirteenth inning.

The Tigers clawed Tom Zachary of the Browns for a 4 to 1 win. Gibson pitched for the winners and Manush got a homer.

Brooklyn woke up after nine straight defeats and whipped the Pirates, 4 to 2, scoring all four runs in the eighth inning. Dazzy Vance pitched for Brooklyn and showed his old-time form in the pinches.

The Cardinals advanced to within two games of the Buccaneers when Jess Haines won a 2 to 0 duel from Wertz of the Braves. A double by O'Farrell broke up the game.

The Reds went crazy with the bat and murdered the Phillies, 21 to 3, Hargrave getting four of Cincinnati's 21 hits. Pipp walloped a homer with the bases loaded.

Guy Bush held the Giants to three hits and the Cubs won in a romp, 11 to 1, tying the New Yorkers for fourth place.

Fight Results

AT OAKLAND, Cal.—Red Uhlan, Oakland middleweight, defeated Battling Gahee, Memphis negro, when the referee disqualified Gahee in the fourth round for not doing his best.

Jack Britton, the former world's welterweight champion, is reported to be planning a come-back. Britton, who is now in his 41st year, had a long and remarkable career in the ring. The record books list his first fight as a knockout victory over Steve Kinney in one round back in 1904.

One of the most curious tennis matches ever played took place at Brighton, England, some years ago. One contestant, a Life Guardsman, wore full dress uniform, while his opponent was mounted on a horse. The mounted player won by three sets to two.

Since the first of this year the pugilistic championships in the light heavyweight, middleweight, welterweight and lightweight divisions have changed hands and the featherweight title has been surrendered by its holder, Louis (Kid) Kaplan.

Finds Self Man Without Country

Almost as tragic a story as the classic by Edward Everett Hale is the plight in detail of John Gray, Canadian, 26 years old, held in the Jackson county, Mo., jail for the violation of immigration laws. Gray came into the United States without passport and was denied citizenship in the United States and the Dominion will not sanction his return to the land of his birth.

$20,000 DAMAGE CASE SETTLED

The $20,000 automobile damage and personal injury case filed July 31st in common pleas court by Thomas A. Shegog against Mrs. Sara Shapiro, of East End, has been dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff.

Shegog, who for some years was chief ceramic engineer for the Sebring Pottery company, at Sebring, and who retired to represent raw clay distributing interests in the East Liverpool district, was injured when a car driven by him was crashed into by one driven by the plaintiff. The terms of the settlement of this case was not made a part of the record.

Clemenceau on the U. S. A.
Pleasing to the Bald.
Apes and Babies.
Food Will Last.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

THE letter that Clemenceau sent to President Coolidge expressed no high opinion of the United States' attitude on war debts. The old French tiger is fighting for his country and uses the weapons at hand.

FOUR years ago, when he wrote an introduction for his book called "Industrial America in the World War," Clemenceau thought well of the United States and what it had done for France. Read this extract from Mr. Clemenceau's own writing:

"Meanwhile, here are some eloquent figures: In 18 months the United States sent up 5,000,000 tons of food supplies and 5,000,000 tons of war material. The steel they sent us represented the raw material for 100,000,000 '75' shells. The foodstuffs they sent us fed 12,000,000 Frenchmen for a year and a half. If this help had not been forthcoming, our army could not have held."

When Clemenceau wrote that, Europe had not yet changed Uncle Sam's name to "Uncle Shylock."

THIS news from Oxford will please bald men, and shock anti-evolutionists. The strength that barbarians used growing hair on the head and other parts of the body is transferred to the brain as hair disappears.

When men climbed down from the trees (the Oxford scientists say it, we don't) they were all hairy. In the time of Adam and Eve hair had disappeared to such an extent that Esau's hairiness seemed strange.

IN THE process of evolution those with less hair survived, for after men discovered the use of fire, those with long hair caught fire and were burned. Some perhaps invented the fashion of singeing the hair, that they might sit around a fire safely.

THE higher apes are born after seven months of prenatal life, and

CALLES TROOPS KILL PASTORS AFTER RIOTING AT LA GUAYABA

At Least 40 Persons Reported Slain at Zaguayo.

BITTER CLASHES

American Embassy Confirms Rumors From Guadalajara.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12.—Five priests were executed by Mexican soldiery following rioting at La Guayaba, in the State of Michoacan, in connection with the religious conflict between the Catholic church and the government of Mexico, dispatches from La Guayaba said today.

French Embassy May Protest.

At least 40 persons, including several priests, were killed a few days before at Zaguayo, not far from La Guayaba, according to the archbishop of Michoacan, now in Mexico City.

Bitter clashes between Catholics and Protestants have occurred in Irapuato in the state of Guanajato, according to El Sol.

The Catholics, vastly in the majority, burned down the houses of 18 Protestant families and committed many outrages against Protestant men and women.

Following reports of outrages against French Catholics in the state of Puebla, the French embassy sent an attache there for the purpose of investigation. If the reports are confirmed, the embassy will lodge a vigorous protest, it was stated.

Attempts at Mediation Fail

The American embassy today confirmed reports of fighting in Guadalajara. The embassy stated that eighteen were killed, 40 wounded, and 400 Catholics taken prisoner in the fighting.

Copies of a revolutionary manifesto alleged to have been signed by Nemesio Garcia Naranjo, former cabinet minister and prominent Catholic intellectual of the state of Nuevo Leon, were being circulated in the capital today. The circular calls upon the inhabitants to arise and overthrow the government.

The episcopate today denied reports that it was seeking a settlement of the religious conflict.

16-Year-old Boy Occupies Nazarene Church Pulpit Here

Because of rain, last night's revival meeting under the auspices of the Church of the Nazarene, was transferred from the Brunt's Hill tent to the church, St. Clair and Lincoln avenues.

Rev. Freddie Thomas, 16-year old Bloomington, Ill., evangelist, occupied the pulpit. Rev. John Fleming, Ashland, Ky., evangelist, is expected to arrive today or tomorrow to assist in the campaign. Since last Sunday there have been approximately 50 confessions.

Rev. Mr. Thomas, known as "the boy evangelist" has been preaching for four years. Since January 1, he has traveled 11,000 miles conducting services. His present bookings are a year in advance.

In case of rain tonight the meeting will be held in the church.

Renewal of Potters' General Ware Agreement Indicated

Atlantic City Conference Over Proposed Two-Year Pact May Adjourn Tonight.

ATLANTIC, CITY, N. J., Aug. 12.—Renewal of the existing biennial agreement between workers and employers in the general ware branch of the pottery industry due to expire on Sept. 30, was indicated as representatives of both groups met in conference today at the Chalfonte hotel. The conference is between the labor committee of the United States Potters' association, headed by W. E. Wells, of Newell, W. Va., representing the manufacturers, and the conference committee of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, of which John T. Wood, of East Liverpool, O., is president.

The session opened yesterday and unless unforeseen differences arise will close tonight. The brotherhood submitted 23 propositions, decided upon when the labor body held it annual convention here in July. The propositions involve improvements in work-

Mrs. Rhoda Cline Seeks Possession Of Replevined Auto

Mrs. Rhoda Cline has instituted an action in common pleas court, Lisbon, to recover an automobile which she claims to be in possession of Carman Hissam, municipal court bailiff, upon orders from the court. Bailiff Hissam, Hepps & Company and A. E. Hepps, are defendants in the suit.

The plaintiff charges that the defendants obtained a judgment against John R. and Minnie McHenry in Justice of the Peace P. V. Mackall's court on November 25, 1924, for $311.15, upon which $5 was paid. Two months ago she claims she purchased an automobile from McHenry and, because of the judgment returned against him in the other suit, she has been unable to secure possession of the car.

Mrs. Cline not only seeks to replevin the automobile but asks that she be awarded $100 damages.

FIVE ENTOMBED MEN ARE FOUND ALIVE IN ZINC AND SPAR MINE

ONE IS INJURED

Workers Without Food Since Slide on Thursday.

SALEM, Ky., Aug. 12.—Five miners, who have been entombed in the Zinc and Spar company mine, near here, since last Thursday night when a "slide-in" blocked a level 150 feet beneath the surface of the main shaft, were found alive early today.

All of the men were in fairly good condition, considering the many days they have gone without food. George Capillo, one of the five, however, was injured having been struck on the back by a falling rock the second day after the slide occurred. It was said, however, that his condition was not serious.

The rescue was effected when two of the men, making their way through the level which had been choked with mud, water and rocks, saw the light of a lamp carried by one of the rescuers and called to him.

Relatives Rush To Mine.

The men then returned to where the other three men were imprisoned and the six men made their way to the main shaft.

The rescue was made at 7:10 o'clock this morning. At that hour they had been imprisoned about 153 hours, the slide-in having occurred at 10 o'clock last Thursday night.

Besides Capillo, the others rescued are:

Roy Hames, U. B. Wilson, Randolph Cobb and Harry Watson.

Great joy reigned throughout the mining camp when the news was spread that the men had been brought out alive. Mothers, sisters, brothers and relatives rushed to the mine, four miles west of here, and a great cheer went up from the crowd.

SHERIFF WRIGHT WINS OVER EELLS BY 618; GEORGE MARGIN 1,730

EMMONS AND VAN FOSSAN EASY WINNERS IN REPRESENTATIVE RACE

Congressman Frank Murphy, Who Was Unopposed, Leads Ticket With Poll of 6,063, According to Complete Returns Which Show That Only 9,480 Electors Voted.

With a majority of 2,220, Elmer E. Walker, Damascus, led the county Republican ticket for contested places in Tuesday's primaries, defeating ex-Mayor Albert Ferren, East Palestine, for the nomination for county auditor, according to the complete unofficial returns announced today by the election board.

Walker polled 4,821 votes against 2,601 given his opponent. But one other candidate for county office, Dr. J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, who was unopposed for coroner and who polled 4,931, received more votes than Walker, now serving the unexpired term of the late Auditor Charles E. Hamilton.

J. Howard Sinclair, Hanoverton auctioneer, defeated John McBane Kerr, Yellow Creek township farmer and granger, his nearest opponent, by a vote of 2,966 to 2,181, a majority of 785. T. H. Wilkinson, East Liverpool, with 1,371 votes, and S. N. Van Blaricom, Salem, with 1,259, trailed.

Fred George, Madison township, former deputy collector of internal revenue for this district, was a winner in the race for the Republican nomination for county treasurer, defeating Fred Eckfeld, Wellsville city auditor, the runner up, by 1,730 votes. C. H. Hoopes, Kensington, third candidate in the race, finished close on the heels of Eckfeld. The vote was: George, 3,870; Eckfeld, 2,142; Hoopes, 1,956.

Murphy Leads Ticket.

The closest fight was that for sheriff, won by George Wright, who seeks a second term. Wright polled 4,311 votes, compared with 3,693, given his opponent, David H. Eells, Lisbon, former turnkey at the county jail. Wright's majority was 618.

Ralph W. Emmons, East Rochester, led the field of four candidates seeking the two nominations for state representative with 4,791 votes. His running mate will be W. H. Van Fossan, Lisbon, who was given a vote of 3,654. The two unsuccessful candidates, H. D. Cope, Rogers, and R. D. Smith, Salineville, were credited with 2,083 and 1,630 votes, respectively.

The biggest vote on the ticket was received by Frank Murphy, Steubenville, for congress from the 18th district, who polled 6,063. W. C. George, East Palestine pottery manufacturer, defeated A. U. Richardson, East Liverpool, for member of the state central committee, 2,952 to 1,912. A. W. Scott, Cadiz, ran a poor third, being given but 963 votes in the county.

Beatty Third In County.

The semi-official vote gave Thad Brown, Columbus, a lead of 827 for the Republican nomination for governor over Myers Y. Cooper, state winner. Brown polled 3,501, Cooper 2,674, Joseph Sieber, Akron, 1,239, and Harry S. Day, Ottawa, 335.

County Electors Reject Proposed State Amendment

Proposed amendment to the constitution giving municipalities authority to assess street improvement costs against abutting property holders instead of taxpayers at large, was rejected by Columbiana county electors by a vote of 4299 to 2859 at Tuesday's primaries.

Although the secretary of state's office in Columbus today had not yet started tabulating votes cast on the proposed plan, meager returns filed showed the movement was also defeated in the state.

H. M. CARPENTER GETS BIG VOTE

Steubenville Lawyer and Lewis Named for State Senate.

Harry M. Carpenter, Steubenville, and Earl R. Lewis, St. Clairsville, both lawyers, were the choice of the Republican voters for state senators from the 20th-22nd district in Tuesday's primaries, returns from the four counties making up the district today indicated.

Carpenter, who has served two terms in the upper house of the legislature, led the race in three counties—Jefferson, Columbiana and Harrison. Lewis was the high man in his home county, Belmont.

BROWN WIRES CONGRATULATIONS AS MYERS Y. COOPER CINCHES REPUBLICAN GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION BY 12,000 PLURALITY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12.—Congratulating the winners by the defeated candidates in the primary election seemed today to be the order of the day.

When tabulations showed that Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, had apparently cinched the Republican gubernatorial nomination with a final plurality that will be around 12,000 votes, Secretary of State Thad Brown capitulated and admitted defeat.

Brown sent Cooper a telegram stating: "Congratulations upon your victory. Best wishes for your success in November."

Hal H. Griswold, of Chardon, conceded the election of Edward C. Turner, Columbus, in the Republican race for attorney general and wired Turner his congratulations.

Albert D. Alcorn of Cincinnati sent his congratulations to Senator Frank B. Willis, who walked away with the Republican nomination for senator.

Stephen Young Wins.

While tabulating of returns from more than 700 slow reporting precincts went forward, all candidates who appeared nominated yesterday held their leading positions with little prospect of being dislodged.

The nomination of Myers Y. Cooper was a certainty. Cooper had 165,313 at the last count against Brown's 152,997 in 8,597 precincts.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, Stephen Young, of Cleveland, today had a total of 56,114 in 7,728 precincts which gave him a majority about 4,000 votes over J. H. Newman, of Columbus.

The contest for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket was decided in the early returns. J. O. Mills had the honor cinched. On the Democatic side, Earl Bloom, Bowling Green, won easily enough.

For attorney general, Edward Turner, Columbus, (R.), and Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, (D.), were the winners.

Latest Count on Contests.

For treasurer of state, Bert Buckley, Dayton, won from Guy Davis, Findlay, by nearly 10,000 in 7,000 precinct returns, and his opponent in November will be John Pattison, son of a former governor.

Clemenceau on the U. S. A.
Pleasing to the Bald.

THE letter that Clemenceau sent to President Coolidge expressed no high opinion of the United States' attitude on war debts. The old French tiger is fighting for his country and uses the weapons at hand.

FOUR years ago, when he wrote an introduction for his book called "Industrial America in the World War," Clemenceau thought well of the United States and what it had done for France. Read this extract from Mr. Clemenceau's own writing:

"Meanwhile, here are some eloquent figures: In 18 months the United States sent up 5,000,000 tons of food supplies and 5,000,000 tons of war material. The steel they sent us represented the raw material for 100,000,000 '75' shells. The foodstuffs they sent us fed 12,000,000 Frenchmen for a year and a half. If this help had not been forthcoming, our army could not have held."

When Clemenceau wrote that, Europe had not yet changed Uncle Sam's name to "Uncle Shylock."

THIS news from Oxford will please bald men, and shock anti-evolutionists. The strength that barbarians used growing hair on the head and other parts of the body is transferred to the brain as hair disappears.

When men climbed down from the trees (the Oxford scientists say it, we don't) they were all hairy. In the time of Adam and Eve hair had disappeared to such an extent that Esau's hairiness seemed strange.

IN THE process of evolution those with less hair survived, for after men discovered the use of fire, those with long hair caught fire and were burned. Some perhaps invented the fashion of singeing the hair, that they might sit around a fire safely.

THE higher apes are born after seven months of prenatal life, and

CALLES TROOPS KILL PASTORS AFTER RIOTING AT LA GUAYABA

At Least 40 Persons Reported Slain at Zaguayo.

BITTER CLASHES

American Embassy Confirms Rumors From Guadalajara.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 12.—Five priests were executed by Mexican soldiery following rioting at La Guayaba, in the State of Michoacan, in connection with the religious conflict between the Catholic church and the government of Mexico, dispatches from La Guayaba said today.

French Embassy May Protest.

At least 40 persons, including several priests, were killed a few days before at Zaguayo, not far from La Guayaba, according to the archbishop of Michoacan, now in Mexico City.

Bitter clashes between Catholics and Protestants have occurred in Irapuato in the state of Guanajato, according to El Sol.

The Catholics, vastly in the majority, burned down the houses of 18 Protestant families and committed many outrages against Protestant men and women.

Following reports of outrages against French Catholics in the state of Puebla, the French embassy sent an attache there for the purpose of investigation. If the reports are confirmed, the embassy will lodge a vigorous protest, it was stated.

Attempts at Mediation Fail

The American embassy today confirmed reports of fighting in Guadalajara. The embassy stated that eighteen were killed, 40 wounded, and 400 Catholics taken prisoner in the fighting.

Copies of a revolutionary manifesto alleged to have been signed by Nemesio Garcia Naranjo, former cabinet minister and prominent Catholic intellectual of the state of Nuevo Leon, were being circulated in the capital today. The circular calls upon the inhabitants to arise and overthrow the government.

The episcopate today denied reports that it was seeking a settlement of the religious conflict.

"Settlement of the conflict is farther from our minds than ever,"

Walker, Damascus, led the county Republican ticket for contested places in Tuesday's primaries, defeating ex-Mayor Albert Ferren, East Palestine, for the nomination for county auditor, according to the complete unofficial returns announced today by the election board.

Walker polled 4,821 votes against 2,601 given his opponent. But one other candidate for county office, Dr. J. M. Van Fossan, East Palestine, who was unopposed for coroner and who polled 4,931, received more votes than Walker, now serving the unexpired term of the late Auditor Charles E. Hamilton.

J. Howard Sinclair, Hanoverton auctioneer, defeated John McBane Kerr, Yellow Creek township farmer and granger, his nearest opponent, by a vote of 2,966 to 2,181, a majority of 785. T. H. Wilkinson, East Liverpool, with 1,371 votes, and S. N. Van Blaricom, Salem, with 1,259, trailed.

Fred George, Madison township, former deputy collector of internal revenue for this district, was a winner in the race for the Republican nomination for county treasurer, defeating Fred Eckfeld, Wellsville city auditor, the runner up, by 1,730 votes. C. H. Hoopes, Kensington, third candidate in the race, finished close on the heels of Eckfeld. The vote was: George, 3,870; Eckfeld, 2,142; Hoopes, 1,956.

Murphy Leads Ticket.

The closest fight was that for sheriff, won by George Wright, who seeks a second term. Wright polled 4,311 votes, compared with 3,693, given his opponent, David H. Eells, Lisbon, former turnkey at the county jail. Wright's majority was 618.

Ralph W. Emmons, East Rochester, led the field of four candidates seeking the two nominations for state representative with 4,791 votes. His running mate will be W. H. Van Fossan, Lisbon, who was given a vote of 3,654. The two unsuccessful candidates, H. D. Cope, Rogers, and R. D. Smith, Salineville, were credited with 2,083 and 1,630 votes, respectively.

The biggest vote on the ticket was received by Frank Murphy, Steubenville, for congress from the 18th district, who polled 6,063. W. C. George, East Palestine pottery manufacturer, defeated A. U. Richardson, East Liverpool, for member of the state central committee, 2,952 to 1,912. A. W. Scott, Cadiz, ran a poor third, being given but 963 votes in the county.

Beatty Third In County.

The semi-official vote gave Thad Brown, Columbus, a lead of 827 for the Republican nomination for governor over Myers Y. Cooper, state winner. Brown polled 3,501, Cooper 2,674, Joseph Sieber, Akron, 1,239, and Harry S. Day, Ottawa, 335.

Other winners on the Republican ticket in this county were: J. O. Mills, Columbus, lieutenant governor; Joseph E. Cross, secretary of state; Bert B. Buckley, state treasurer; H. H. Griswold, attorney general; Frank B. Willis, United States senator; Carrington T. Marshall, chief justice of the supreme court; Frank W. Geiger and C. G. Washburn, member of the su-

County Electors Reject Proposed State Amendment

Proposed amendment to the constitution giving municipalities authority to assess street improvement costs against abutting property holders instead of taxpayers at large, was rejected by Columbiana county electors by a vote of 4299 to 2859 at Tuesday's primaries.

Although the secretary of state's office in Columbus today had not yet started tabulating votes cast on the proposed plan, meager returns filed showed the movement was also defeated in the state.

H. M. CARPENTER GETS BIG VOTE

Steubenville Lawyer and Lewis Named for State Senate.

Harry M. Carpenter, Steubenville, and Earl R. Lewis, St. Clairsville, both lawyers, were the choice of the Republican voters for state senators from the 20th-22nd district in Tuesday's primaries, returns from the four counties making up the district today indicated.

Carpenter, who has served two terms in the upper house of the legislature, led the race in three counties—Jefferson, Columbiana and Harrison. Lewis was the high man in his home county, Belmont.

The Steubenville candidate polled 14,952 votes, while Lewis was given 9,246. G. Frank Malin, also of Belmont county, ran third in the race, polling 4,910 votes, while William C.

BROWN WIRES CONGRATULATIONS AS MYERS Y. COOPER CINCHES REPUBLICAN GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION BY 12,000 PLURALITY

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12.—Congratulating the winners by the defeated candidates in the primary election seemed today to be the order of the day.

When tabulations showed that Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, had apparently cinched the Republican gubernatorial nomination with a final plurality that will be around 12,000 votes, Secretary of State Thad Brown capitulated and admitted defeat.

Brown sent Cooper a telegram stating: "Congratulations upon your victory. Best wishes for your success in November."

Hal H. Griswold, of Chardon, conceded the election of Edward C. Turner, Columbus, in the Republican race for attorney general and wired Turner his congratulations.

Albert D. Alcorn of Cincinnati sent his congratulations to Senator Frank B. Willis, who walked away with the Republican nomination for senator.

Stephen Young Wins.

While tabulating of returns from more than 700 slow reporting precincts went forward, all candidates who appeared nominated yesterday held their leading positions with little prospect of being dislodged.

The nomination of Myers Y. Cooper was a certainty. Cooper had 165,313 at the last count against Brown's 152,997 in 8,597 precincts.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, Stephen Young, of Cleveland, today had a total of 56,114 in 7,728 precincts which gave him a majority about 4,000 votes over J. H. Newman, of Columbus.

The contest for lieutenant governor on the Republican ticket was decided in the early returns. J. O. Mills had the honor cinched. On the Democatic side, Earl Bloom, Bowling Green, won easily enough.

For attorney general, Edward Turner, Columbus, (R.), and Charles B. Zimmerman, Springfield, (D.), were the winners.

Latest Count on Contests.

For treasurer of state, Bert Buckley, Dayton, won from Guy Davis, Findlay, by nearly 10,000 in 7,000 precinct returns, and his opponent in November will be John Pattison, son of a former governor.

STATE SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Change is Announced in Courses for High Students.

Haphazard elective studies to meet the whims of students and teachers in the high schools of West Virginia under state control will be prevented in the future by the revised curriculum adopted last week by the state board of education after several days' deliberation over the report of the curriculum committee, headed by Prof. Lakin F. Roberts of West Virginia university.

The action of the board includes the adoption of many courses suitable for high schools of one room, up to the largest in the state. A definite type of well organized studies is outlined and it is left to the local authorities to adopt that which is most suitable to their schools.

This will necessitate the carrying of more required courses on the curriculum of a school, and less electives. It will require "the old-fashioned subjects considered essential for the training of citizenship."

Latin and other languages are included in the curricula of the schools, yet courses for the smaller schools are outlined without the language, so that it may be left out if desired. It was popularly understood that dead languages were not approved for high school study by the secondary principals at their meeting in Huntington last summer, but this was a mistake, J. F. Marsh, secretary of the state board of education, said.

The adoption of a course suitable to a school, in the opinion of the state board, will eliminate uncertain changes and waverings in the instruction in a particular school. It is believed that this will simplify high school organization, prevent over-lapping in teacher training, require each teacher to do his full share of teaching and discourage the employment of unnecessary teachers.

HELEN WILLS' OLD TENNIS BONNET BRINGS BUSINESS TO EYE DOCTORS

PHILADELPHIA — Helen Wills, American tennis star has started something in head gear that, according to optometrists, may impair the vision.

Miss Wills, appeared on the tennis courts of Caen, Monte Carlo and Nice with a visor which resembled a hat and a parasol and retained the best features of each.

Soon this visor became popular and even those who had never played tennis began to wear the new "headpiece." Now delivery boys, taxicab drivers, motorists go about with their faces shaded different colors from the light filtering through the visors.

Eye specialists here declared that they already have been treating several cases of defective vision which was traced to the continued use of this new head gear.

Dr. M. Lewis Levitt, a local eye specialist said he has several patients whose retinas are in a painful condition as a result, he believed from the promiscuous use of the visor.

"Rays of light that are necessary to produce a healthy stimulus to the eye are cut off and the eye soon loses its ability to function as nature intended," declared Dr. Joseph H. O'Neill, president of the Massachusetts Society of Optometrists, recently.

The health of Animals branch of the Canadian department of agriculture will have its own ornamental building of four stories to be erected at Hull at a cost of $100,000.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1926.

Myers Y. Cooper, Republican Nominee

Ohio Republicans have nominated a man of character and ability for the governorship in Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, who, with only seven precincts of 8,634 unreported, leads Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, his closest competitor, by 15,656 votes.

Cooper, banker, home builder, president of the Ohio Fair Managers' association and head of the Ohio Council of Churches, will oppose Gov. A. V. Donahey, renominated for a third term by the Democrats, in the November election.

The Republican standard bearer is well equipped for the vigorous campaign which he promises to wage. He was born on a farm in Newton township, Licking county, one of a family of eleven children who were reared in a modest home by parents who wrested a livelihood from a few hilly acres. Myers Cooper's early training was for the classroom, for his father, for 32 years a school teacher, emphasized the value of education. After attending the rural school, the gubernatorial nominee enrolled in the National Normal university at Lebanon and became interested in salesmanship. Upon leaving school he joined his brothers in the real estate business in Cincinnati.

He has been active in community work in his home city. He was one of the founders of the Hyde Park Business club and the East High Community center and served in Liberty bond campaigns during the war period. He is president of the Hyde Park Lumber company and one of the organizers and first vice president of the Hyde Park Savings bank. Great credit is given Mr. Cooper for originating a plan in the early day of his experiences that made it possible for workers to own homes on small cash payments, meeting the balance of their obligations on a rental basis. His greatest activity has been in the development of subdivisions and the building of modern homes.

Possessed of a personality that wins friends, he will radiate enthusiasm in the campaign preceding the election, as he did in the pre-primary canvass. And he will bring to his support all units of the party, for his sterling character, high ideals of public service and citizenship and business ability are certain to appeal to the Ohio electorate.

Women Car Washers

Here is a brand—new occupation for women, with real possibilities in it. An automobile service company that was dissatisfied with the sloshing activities of its male workers has hired a crew of women to wash cars. The suggestion came from a woman patron, who insisted that a woman would naturally do a better job than a man in housecleaning an automobile.

The results so far are said to prove her contention. Six women are employed in the establishment. Four of them, in khaki suits, rubber aprons and rubber boots, are turned loose on a car at once, for half an hour, and what they do to that car is a revelation. Dirt and grease vanish miraculously. The result is a cleanliness, neatness and polish, inside and outside, such as motorists never knew before.

How do the women workers like it? Ask them!

"Far better than housework," they say. "It's nice being out in the open. The work is healthful and interesting, too. Every car is a different job. It isn't like going over the same old floors and furniture all the time. And the pay is good."

Still man people will object, "It's not" women's work Others will point to it as a wholesome example, and insist on Mother getting out after supper, in Father's raincoat and boots, for the week-end cleaning, while Father sits on the porch and tells her how to do it.

Living Dragons

Alan Cobham, famous British airman, flying to Australia, sees on an island of the antipodes "two live dragons" comparable with the fabled monster slain by St. George, the Englist patron saint.

The beasts—or perhaps the reptiles—are described as "about 10 feet long, possessing huge claws with which they are able to kill and devour animals as large as horses." They are believed to be direct descendants of the prehistoric monsters whose fossils are found in the rocks and exhibited in natural history museums.

Thus the remote past meets the present, and science joins hands with legend. Nearly all races have their traditions of dragons, and in China they have become an inseparable part of the national art. It has been considered possible that such legends really represented dim human memories of struggles with such monsters as the dinosaur and his fearsome relatives far back in the infancy of the race. Few, however, have imagined that there might be actual survivors of that dread brood still existing on the earth. Komodo Island, near Bima, which is near Australia, should be an interesting port of call for future air tourists.

When a rural village can't profit by automobile traffic in any other way, it sets a speed trap and fines outsiders for driving through at 20 miles an hour or ignoring an "boulevard stop" on a cow-path.

Now somebody says the men are going to have beauty parlors of their own. And goodness knows, they need 'em.

West Toonerville News Item— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—New York as well as the outlands has been flooded for some time with what is known as "dumbell classics"—the dubious effort to make literature out of illiteracy. Certain metropolitan types are pictured as beautiful but brainless.

The popularity of such a theme is, of course, due to the glow of superiority felt by the reader. Stupidity is exaggerated and allotted to select few who through circumstances over which they had no control might not have been able to attend Harvard or Vassar.

All shop girls are not devoting their time to chewing gum and discussing the exploits of their marcelled movie heroine. Nor is every newstand girl looking for some emotional experience with a Pittsburgh millionaire. I have never heard a telephone girl exclaim "Migawd, Lizzie, did you see him stare?" or such.

There are chorus girls who do not lisp baby talk and cry every dinner companion out of a chinchilla or month's rent in the taxi going home. There are executives in the motion picture business who did not begin their careers tailoring pants in Essex street.

One of the most cultured and brilliant ladies I know used to preside at a hotel cigar and newstand. It happened that in sudden adversity the job was the only avenue of employment offered. Hers has been a life of rare sacrifice for others.

My contact with those cradled in luxury and refinement is extremely remote, but I have met a few, and the most vapidly inane creature I ever recall meeting belonged to the group society editors classify as "reigning debutantes."

She was sailing abroad for the first time and inquired where the steamer carrying the second-class passengers was. She thought they followed on a separate boat. She was no more representative of her world than the occasional slangy shop girl is of hers.

The intellectuality associated with horn rimmed glasses and the ability to use "whom" correctly may not flower along humbler paths but one cannot help but notice that those who came up, like Horatio Alger heroes, to endow universities and establish philanthropic funds are those whose education probably ended with the exploits of Ned in the First Reader.

All of which is not intended as a faint sneer at education. If I had a son it would be my ambition for him to acquire a college education simply for the pleasure knowledge gives, but in the actual affairs of men I do not believe it means a thing. Nor do I believe that 25 per cent of the real successful men in America are college bred.

A small shop-keeper in Nassau street took advantage of one of those frigid summer days a few weeks ago to have his little joke. In a tray in his window was a sign: "Nine cents a pair while they last." The tray was filled with ear muffs.

The most ironical touch of all is a cellar coal and kindling sign on lower Second Avenue. It reads: "Coal and Kindling. Founded 1919. Director—Jake."

And then there is the umbrella-topped portable ice cream cart in midtown that is labeled: "Tony, Inc."

This from one of New York's foremost students of women's style: In three years fashionable women will be wearing long hair and skirts slightly above their ankles. The change will begin to be noticed this winter. We shall polish binoculars and reserve seat A. I for the phenomenon.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Trade Commission Troubles.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The interesting proposition that every citizen of the United States is conclusively presumed to know each and every law of the United States, and therefore can not legally be considered to be deceived by anything that is lawful, is the feature of a defense recently filed with the federal trade commission by a cigar company accused of using misleading brands on its cigars.

Just where this defense, if sustained, might lead in stopping the federal trade commission in its career of prosecuting manufacturers for alleged misbranding is hard to foresee. In the case in point, the cigar company says it holds a United States trade-mark to the brand which the federal commission complains is misleading, and therefore, in effect, invites the trade commission to go tell its troubles to the United States patetn office, which issued the trade mark.

The question involved is the use of the word Havana in the trade-mark name of a cigar which does not contain any tobacco raised on the island of Cuba. The federal trade commission issued a cease and desist order against the manufacturer, declaring that to label a cigar made of other tobacco with a trade name including the word Havana was misleading. The manufacturers was told to stop it. The complaint set forth that it was unfair competition to use this name, because other cigar manufacturers do not use words which might lead the consumer to think a cigar is of Cuban tobacco when it is not.

The commission set forth that it is a common and general belief in this country that Cuban tobacco is superior to tobacco grown elsewhere, and that it is basically unfair to use the word Havana in a label on a non-Cuban cigar, even though the manufacturer made no direct claim that there was any Cuban tobacco in the cigar.

To all of this the manufacturer has replied that the trade-marked name of his cigar does not carry with it any claim of presumption that there is any Havana or Cuban tobacco in the cigar. The answer filed with the commission points out that the trade mark law of 1905 very plainly declares that it is not permissible to trade-mark a name is merely the common designation of a material, nor is it permissible to trade-mark a name which is purely geographical. Hence the mere name Havana could not be trade-marked, nor could the mere word tobacco.

Does Not Name Materials Used.

It is therefore quite plain, says the manufacturer, that the label on his cigar, which consists of the word Havana together with other words which do not necessarily refer to tobacco at all, is merely a coined label, invented as a trade-mark and carrying no implication that the cigar came from Cuba. Supposing the name were Princess Havana, or Havana Label, or something like that, the contention of the manufacturer is that it does not legally mean the cigar contains Havana tobacco any more than if the name were Hot Sugar Dandy Cigar, it would imply that there was any hot sugar in the product.

To hold otherwise, says the cigar making concern, would be to assume that the United States patent office had made a mistake in granting the trade-mark. It can not grant a trade-mark on a mere name of a common substance or material, or on a geographical name. Hence the trade-mark of the cigar in question was not granted on any basis except that the name in question was a term or combination of words invented solely as a trade-mark, and not to be confused with the geographical term or word Havana.

Should the commission respond that despite all of this, any ordinary person assumes that the word Havana refers to the city of Havana in the republic of Cuba, the manufacturer in turn says such an idea is impossible, because every citizen is presumed to be familiar with every law. The trade-mark law says a trade-mark can not be granted for a geographical name. Every citizen, knowing the law, must therefore know that the name Havana in a cigar trade-mark does not and can not refer to Havana, Cuba.

For the federal trade commission to assume that anybody could possibly be misled into the idea that the word Havana in a trade-marked label refers to Havana, Cuba, is for the commission to assume that there is somebody who does not know the law. In law that is quite impossible. Everybody is conclusively presumed to know every law. Ignorance of the law is no defense for offending against the law. It is no excuse for complaining against anybody else for a lawful act. Every court in the country has always operated on that basis.

Hence the conclusion that the term Havana as part of a trade-mark does not and can not have any connection with the city of that name, and can not possibly, in law, deceive naybody for an instant.

Other Similar Cases.

This case is a sample of one of the intricacies of law which the federal trade commission is up against in its campaign against what it regards as misnaming and mislabelling goods of various sorts.

It has another cigar case pending in which the word Cuba is used as part of the lettering of a trade-marked cigar not made entirely from Cuban tobacco, and it has various other investigations under way in which its declared purpose is to compel manufacturers to stop using misleading names and labels and descriptions of goods.

Recently a manufacturer took out a trade-mark for a cigar named the Ford, and this was only accomplished over the protest of Henry Ford, the automobile maker. The latter contended that the cigar maker was infringing on a name made valuable in trade by the motor company. The patent office after extensive consideration decided that the motor company trade-mark restricted the name Ford only as a trade-mark for automobiles and was not infringed or damaged by its use as a name for cigars.

The Havana case will now be tried out in the federal courts, which are the final resort for all cases started by the federal trade commission. The commission also expects a court issue sooner or later over the new policy adopted by Chairman Will E. Humphrey of making magazines the subject of cease and desist orders for publishing advertisements appearing on the face of them to be fraudulent. No answer has yet been made in the first case of this sort, wherein a magazine has been complained of for printing a certain beauty advertisement which the commission holds to be palpably fraudulent.

The general present tendency of the federal trade commission is to devote itself to strict matters of trade practice such as alleged mislabelling of goods, rather than to enter the field of anti-trust prosecutions, which it undertook to do for some years.

In the trade practice field it is scoring additional success in its campaign for standardized practice in labelling furniture, several additional firms in recent weeks having subscribed to its trade practice proposal of calling veneered wood furniture by names including the term veneered, to differentiate plainly from solid wood products. A few companies objecting to the new rules may yet bring this question also to court.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, AUGUST 12, 1926.

Myers Y. Cooper, Republican Nominee

Ohio Republicans have nominated a man of character and ability for the governorship in Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, who, with only seven precincts of 8,634 unreported, leads Secretary of State Thad H. Brown, his closest competitor, by 15,656 votes.

Cooper, banker, home builder, president of the Ohio Fair Managers' association and head of the Ohio Council of Churches, will oppose Gov. A. V. Donahey, renominated for a third term by the Democrats, in the November election.

The Republican standard bearer is well equipped for the vigorous campaign which he promises to wage. He was born on a farm in Newton township, Licking county, one of a family of eleven children who were reared in a modest home by parents who wrested a livelihood from a few hilly acres. Myers Cooper's early training was for the classroom, for his father, for 32 years a school teacher, emphasized the value of education. After attending the rural school, the gubernatorial nominee enrolled in the National Normal university at Lebanon and became interested in salesmanship. Upon leaving school he joined his brothers in the real estate business in Cincinnati.

He has been active in community work in his home city. He was one of the founders of the Hyde Park Business club and the East High Community center and served in Liberty bond campaigns during the war period. He is president of the Hyde Park Lumber company and one of the organizers and first vice president of the Hyde Park Savings bank. Great credit is given Mr. Cooper for originating a plan in the early day of his experiences that made it possible for workers to own homes on small cash payments, meeting the balance of their obligations on a rental basis. His greatest activity has been in the development of subdivisions and the building of modern homes.

Possessed of a personality that wins friends, he will radiate enthusiasm in the campaign preceding the election, as he did in the pre-primary canvass. And he will bring to his support all units of the party, for his sterling character, high ideals of public service and citizenship and business ability are certain to appeal to the Ohio electorate.

Women Car Washers

Here is a brand—new occupation for women, with real possibilities in it. An automobile service company that was dissatisfied with the sloshing activities of its male workers has hired a crew of women to wash cars. The suggestion came from a woman patron, who insisted that a woman would naturally do a better job than a man in housecleaning an automobile.

The results so far are said to prove her contention. Six women are employed in the establishment. Four of them, in khaki suits, rubber aprons and rubber boots, are turned loose on a car at once, for half an hour, and what they do to that car is a revelation. Dirt and grease vanish miraculously. The result is a cleanliness, neatness and polish, inside and outside, such as motorists never knew before.

How do the women workers like it? Ask them!

"Far better than housework," they say. "It's nice being out in the open. The work is healthful and interesting, too. Every car is a different job. It isn't like going over the same old floors and furniture all the time. And the pay is good."

Still man people will object, "It's not" women's work Others will point to it as a wholesome example, and insist on Mother getting out after supper, in Father's raincoat and boots, for the week-end cleaning, while Father sits on the porch and tells her how to do it.

Living Dragons

Alan Cobham, famous British airman, flying to Australia, sees on an island of the antipodes "two live dragons" comparable with the fabled monster slain by St. George, the Englist patron saint.

The beasts—or perhaps the reptiles—are described as "about 10 feet long, possessing huge claws with which they are able to kill and devour animals as large as horses." They are believed to be direct descendants of the prehistoric monsters whose fossils are found in the rocks and exhibited in natural history museums.

Thus the remote past meets the present, and science joins hands with legend. Nearly all races have their traditions of dragons, and in China they have become an inseparable part of the national art. It has been considered possible that such legends really represented dim human memories of struggles with such monsters as the dinosaur and his fearsome relatives far back in the infancy of the race. Few, however, have imagined that there might be actual survivors of that dread brood still existing on the earth. Komodo Island, near Bima, which is near Australia, should be an interesting port of call for future air tourists.

When a rural village can't profit by automobile traffic in any other way, it sets a speed trap and fines outsiders for driving through at 20 miles an hour or ignoring an "boulevard stop" on a cow-path.

Now somebody says the men are going to have beauty parlors of their own. And goodness knows, they need 'em.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—New York as well as the outlands has been flooded for some time with what is known as "dumbell classics"—the dubious effort to make literature out of illiteracy. Certain metropolitan types are pictured as beautiful but brainless.

The popularity of such a theme is, of course, due to the glow of superiority felt by the reader. Stupidity is exaggerated and allotted to select few who through circumstances over which they had no control might not have been able to attend Harvard or Vassar.

All shop girls are not devoting their time to chewing gum and discussing the exploits of their marcelled movie heroine. Nor is every newstand girl looking for some emotional experience with a Pittsburgh millionaire. I have never heard a telephone girl exclaim "Migawd, Lizzie, did you see him stare?" or such.

There are chorus girls who do not lisp baby talk and cry every dinner companion out of a chinchilla or month's rent in the taxi going home. There are executives in the motion picture business who did not begin their careers tailoring pants in Essex street.

One of the most cultured and brilliant ladies I know used to preside at a hotel cigar and newstand. It happened that in sudden adversity the job was the only avenue of employment offered. Hers has been a life of rare sacrifice for others.

My contact with those cradled in luxury and refinement is extremely remote, but I have met a few, and the most vapidly inane creature I ever recall meeting belonged to the group society editors classify as "reigning debutantes."

She was sailing abroad for the first time and inquired where the steamer carrying the second-class passengers was. She thought they followed on a separate boat. She was no more representative of her world than the occasional slangy shop girl is of hers.

The intellectuality associated with horn rimmed glasses and the ability to use "whom" correctly may not flower along humbler paths but one cannot help but notice that those who came up, like Horatio Alger heroes, to endow universities and establish philanthropic funds are those whose education probably ended with the exploits of Ned in the First Reader.

All of which is not intended as a faint sneer at education. If I had a son it would be my ambition for him to acquire a college education simply for the pleasure knowledge gives, but in the actual affairs of men I do not believe it means a thing. Nor do I believe that 25 per cent of the real successful men in America are college bred.

A small shop-keeper in Nassau street took advantage of one of those frig'd summer days a few weeks ago to have his little joke. In a tray in his window was a sign: "Nine cents a pair while they last." The tray was filled with ear muffs.

The most ironical touch of all is a cellar coal and kindling sign on lower Second Avenue. It reads: "Coal and Kindling. Founded 1919. Director—Jake."

And then there is the umbrella-topped portable ice cream cart in midtown that is labeled: "Tony, Inc."

This from one of New York's foremost students of women's style: In three years fashionable women will be wearing long hair and skirts slightly above their ankles. The change will begin to be noticed this winter. We shall pelase binoculars and reserve seat A. 1 for the phenomenon.

HASKIN'S LETTER

Trade Commission Troubles.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The interesting proposition that every citizen of the United States is conclusively presumed to know each and every law of the United States, and therefore can not legally be considered to be deceived by anything that is lawful, is the feature of a defense recently filed with the federal trade commission by a cigar company accused of using misleading brands on its cigars.

Just where this defense, if sustained, might lead in stopping the federal trade commission in its career of prosecuting manufacturers for alleged misbranding is hard to foresee. In the case in point, the cigar company says it holds a United States trade-mark to the brand which the federal commission complains is misleading, and therefore, in effect, invites the trade commission to go tell its troubles to the United States patetn office, which issued the trade mark.

The question involved is the use of the word Havana in the trade-mark name of a cigar which does not contain any tobacco raised on the island of Cuba. The federal trade commission issued a cease and desist order against the manufacturer, declaring that to label a cigar made of other tobacco with a trade name including the word Havana was misleading. The manufacturers was told to stop it. The complaint set forth that it was unfair competition to use this name, because other cigar manufacturers do not use words which might lead the consumer to think a cigar is of Cuban tobacco when it is not.

The commission set forth that it is a common and general belief in this country that Cuban tobacco is superior to tobacco grown elsewhere, and that it is basically unfair to use the word Havana in a label on a non-Cuban cigar, even though the manufacturer made no direct claim that there was any Cuban tobacco in the cigar.

To all of this the manufacturer has replied that the trade-marked name of his cigar does not carry with it any claim of presumption that there is any Havana or Cuban tobacco in the cigar. The answer filed with the commission points out that the trade mark law of 1905 very plainly declares that it is not permissible to trade-mark a name is merely the common designation of a material, nor is it permissible to trade-mark a name which is purely geographical. Hence the mere name Havana could not be trade-marked, nor could the mere word tobacco.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE.

Rockwell had gone limp in his chair. The color fled from his face, leaving only sweat and a look of fright. His cigarette had gone out. He dropped it, from limp fingers, into an ash-tray. He was muttering something about "absurdity" and "no case at all." Finally, with a wry and painful smile, he got this out: "Well, I seem to have nothing to say about this. But my God, I'm not a murderer. You both know I'm not."

"There are different sorts of murders," said Fred. "Will you marry her tonight?"

"Why—yes, if it's—yes, I'm perfectly willing to do that."

"Understand, you don't make any

Central American trips—not this season! You stick right here and take decent care of this girl. Is that clear?"

"Why, that's—well, yes, I agree to that."

"All right." Fred's tension was not relaxed, however. "We'd better get right along, Bee. The parson will be waiting. We'll pick up a taxi. And as for you Rockwell, just one thing more: I've kept my temper up to now. I haven't told you what I think of you. For the girl's sake, I'm willing to do everything possible to save your face in this mess. But if you don't go through with it right, if you pull any more of that selfish stuff, I'm going to give myself the satisfaction of smashing in that pretty face of yours so it won't be recognizable for a long, long time."

Arthur, up now, made as if to bridle and face Fred out on that point, but the courage was all gone from him. Even the vanity which had fed his cool presence and his complacent brain as if it were an inexhaustible spring of life, was evaporated now into thin mist. Meekly he went out with them and drove off to his wedding.

Arthur's manner, or a thin shell that resembled it, revived somewhat for the wedding. Fred, standing at the foot of the bed closely watching him, concluded that the man was acting, and even in a perhaps perverse sense taking pride in his performance. A crushed spirit seeking some obscure avenue in which a rag or two of self-respect could exhibit themselves. He bent tenderly over to help Bee explain to the suffering girl. And after the solemn sentences of the clergyman, and his own and Delia's responses (hers hardly more than a gasp), he bent reverently down and kissed her lips. Fred turned away at that.

Louise and Bee packed a suitcase then. They were leaving Arthur there in the rooms for the time, until Delia might be moved or—but they didn't voice the alternative. Fred carried the case across the Square to Delia's room. The three climbed the stairs silently together, and let themselves in with the key Bee had slipped into her bag when she'd taken Delia in the morning. The room was in disorder, just as it had been left. While the girls moved about hanging clothing away and putting things to rights, Fred looked about for the bottle. He found it on the bed, under a pillow, where the girl must have hidden it in her confusion—a small brown bottle with roughened edges, labeled "Poison." "Hm," mused Fred, "—corrosive sublimate. That's what I rather thought." That's what I rather thought." And then, to Bee: "This isn't the strongest evidence in the world, but you girls had better hold on to it until we can put through the other ceremony with a proper license. It seemed to work pretty well on Rockwell today when I held it over him."

Lou, at a small desk in the corner, held up an envelope to the light from the one small window. "Here's her father's address," she said—adding, to no purpose: "He's in the grain and feed business in Worcester. Perhaps you'd better wire him, Fred."

"Let's get some dinner first," put in Bee, who felt that she couldn't stay in this room an unnecessary minute. "Do you realize that it's only seven o'clock. I really think we'd better think this whole thing over, talk it out."

Fred nodded. "That's the conclusion I've been coming to, Bee. I had a little talk with the doctor. He thinks she'll live a couple of days, anyway. And before that time, he thinks he'll have some pretty definite guess as to her chances."

"You see," said Bee, "maybe we can work out a reasonable story. What I can't bear is the thought of bringing those poor people into this awful situation—as it looks now.

English Metropolis Boasts 88 Women Funeral Furnishers

LONDON — There are 88 women funeral furnishers in England, eight of whom practice in London, according to a recent census.

It is stated the women funeral furnishers are warmly welcomed by women faced with bereavement, many of whom find it much easier to deal with one of their own sex than with men furnishers.

Six of the London women first entered the business during the world war, when their husbands were on military service. The dean of the London women furnishers is Mrs. J. G. Thomas, who has an establishment in the Deptford district, on the East Side.

"I consider that funeral furnishing is essentially a business where women might help women more than men, especially in the case of the death of children," Mrs. Thomas said in an interview.

Flow of Mud From Mount Shasta Causes Heavy Damage Loss

REDDING, Cal. — Mount Shasta, the highest peak in California, is again showing a disposition to change its geographical location.

Every year, as soon as the hot weather begins a flow of mud from the glacier on the eastern slope of the mountain begins to make its way across country, causing serious damage. Two years ago the flow of mud was particularly serious.

The stream of mud is again devastating the surrounding country, and efforts to divert its flow into the McCloud river have so far proven fruitless. The flow of mud is expected to continue until the freezing weather comes.

Here's the Truth About Your Weight

From Childhood to Old Age

EXCESSIVE THINNESS IS DANGEROUS

Regardless of how well you may feel today—if you are ten or more pounds underweight and have been that way for any length of time—you should frankly and honestly consider the matter seriously.

Ask yourself these questions: Why am I underweight? Can such a condition be natural and perfectly allright? Is it possible for me to be really Healthy— look and feel my best—and still be excessively thin? Why do Life Insurance Companies refuse to sell Insurance to those who are apparently in perfect health, but considerably underweight?

If you care enough about your Health, you will treat this matter seriously, and quickly take steps to correct it—then before long, perhaps a week or ten days, you can look for a beneficial change.

In the successful treatment of Low Vitality and subnormal weight, proper nourishment is of utmost importance. And, in this connection, the powerfully concentrated flesh building value, the physical power and strength, contained in McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets are especially recommended and supplied by Mathews Medicine Store and all druggists—60 tablets for 60 cents—on a money back if not satisfied plan.

Thousands of users have been benefited—"Gained 10 pounds in 22 days"—"11½ pounds in 60 days"—"15 pounds in six weeks"—This is amazing evidence!

Remember, McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—actually contain the valuable extractives of Cod Livers—but minus the offensive odor and taste. Tiny, tasteless and pleasant to use. Nearly 20 million tablets sold last month in the United States and Canada alone. If you need a treatment of this kind, try "McCoy's Tablets" today!

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE.

Rockwell had gone limp in his chair. The color fled from his face, leaving only sweat and a look of fright. His cigarette had gone out. He dropped it, from limp fingers, into an ash-tray. He was muttering something about "absurdity" and "no case at all." Finally, with a wry and painful smile, he got this out: "Well, I seem to have nothing to say about this. But my God, I'm not a murderer. You both know I'm not."

"There are different sorts of murders," said Fred. "Will you marry her tonight?"

"Why—yes, if it's—yes, I'm perfectly willing to do that."

"Understand, you don't make any

Central American trips—not this season! You stick right here and take decent care of this girl. Is that clear?"

"Why, that's—well, yes, I agree to that."

"All right." Fred's tension was not relaxed, however. "We'd better get right along, Bee. The parson will be waiting. We'll pick up a taxi. And as for you Rockwell, just one thing more: I've kept my temper up to now. I haven't told you what I think of you. For the girl's sake, I'm willing to do everything possible to save your face in this mess. But if you don't go through with it right, if you pull any more of that selfish stuff, I'm going to give myself the satisfaction of smashing in that pretty face of yours so it won't be recognizable for a long, long time."

Arthur, up now, made as if to bridle and face Fred out on that point, but the courage was all gone from him. Even the vanity which had fed his cool presence and his complacent brain as if it were an inexhaustible spring of life, was evaporated now into thin mist. Meekly he went out with them and drove off to his wedding.

Arthur's manner, or a thin shell that resembled it, revived somewhat for the wedding. Fred, standing at the foot of the bed closely watching him, concluded that the man was acting, and even in a perhaps perverse sense taking pride in his performance. A crushed spirit seeking some obscure avenue in which a rag or two of self-respect could exhibit themselves. He bent tenderly over to help Bee explain to the suffering girl. And after the solemn sentences of the clergyman, and his own and Delia's responses (hers hardly more than a gasp), he bent reverently down and kissed her lips. Fred turned away at that.

Louise and Bee packed a suitcase then. They were leaving Arthur there in the rooms for the time, until Delia might be moved or—but they didn't voice the alternative. Fred carried the case across the Square to Delia's room. The three climbed the stairs silently together, and let themselves in with the key Bee had slipped into her bag when she'd taken Delia in the morning. The room was in disorder, just as it had been left. While the girls moved about hanging clothing away and putting things to rights, Fred looked about for the bottle. He found it on the bed, under a pillow, where the girl must have hidden it in her confusion—a small brown bottle with roughened edges, labeled "Poison." "Hm," mused Fred, "—corrosive sublimate. That's what I rather thought." That's what I rather thought." And then, to Bee: "This isn't the strongest evidence in the world, but you girls had better hold on to it until we can put through the other ceremony with a proper license. It seemed to work pretty well on Rockwell today when I held it over him."

Lou, at a small desk in the corner, held up an envelope to the light from the one small window. "Here's her father's address," she said—adding, to no purpose: "He's in the grain and feed business in Worcester. Perhaps you'd better wire him, Fred."

"Let's get some dinner first," put in Bee, who felt that she couldn't stay in this room an unnecessary minute. "Do you realize that it's only seven o'clock. I really think we'd better think this whole thing over, talk it out."

Fred nodded. "That's the conclusion I've been coming to, Bee. I had a little talk with the doctor. He thinks she'll live a couple of days, anyway. And before that time, he thinks he'll have some pretty definite guess as to her chances."

"You see," said Bee, "maybe we can work out a reasonable story. What I can't bear is the thought of bringing those poor people into this awful situation—as it looks now.

P. R. R. HEAD KEEPS BUSINESS RECORD

But few members of the vast traveling public using the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad know that it has an organization of capable men who possess information concerning the possibilities for manufacturing plants along its rails that is unsurpassed by any other agency.

For the purpose of acquiring those interested with the facilities for furnishing this information, an attractive poster has been prepared, a copy of which will be placed shortly in each passenger station on the System. It is entitled "Locate Your Factory on the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Broadway of Commerce." The center piece is a photograph of a typical industrial district along the Pennsy.

E. J. Israel, J., who is recognized as one of the livest of the live wires in the Central region, is in charge of the Mid-West industrial department, with headquarters in Pittsburgh.

The work of Industrial Agent Israel includes the suggesting of sites and available buildings suitable for practically every kind of manufacture and warehousing. He has a veritable mine of valuable information ready to be tapped for the asking.

Doing almost unlimited research work in his line, Mr. Israel has at the present time a record of more than 700 sites and buildings available for manufacturing and warehousing. His files contain the proximity of these various sites to natural resources, including both power, water, light and fuel and other facilities.

The principal object of the industrial agent is to give the prospective manufacturer as complete data as is possible about the particular site in which he is interested to enable him to select the most strategic point along the Pennsylvania Lines for his business.

Other industrial agents are located at St. Louis, Chicago and Philadelphia.

CLEAR VISION AND COMFORT

GLASSES ARE IMPORTANT

Do you remember Theodore Roosevelt's story of how he discovered when he was thirteen years old that he could not see well?

He complained to his father, who provided glasses.

In his "Autobiography," published by Macmillan, he wrote:

"I had no idea how beautiful the world was until I got those spectacles.

"I had been a clumsy and awkward little boy, and while much of my clumsiness and awkwardness was doubtless due to general characteristics, a good deal of it was due to the fact that I could not see and yet was wholly ignorant that I was not seeing.

"The recollection of this experience gives me a keen sympathy with those who are trying in our public schools and elsewhere to remove the physical causes of deficiency in children, who are often unjustly blamed for being obstinate or unambitious, or mentally stupid."

T. R. was not unique in his defects. Examinations by the American Red Cross nurses in Pennsylvania schools showed that one child in every six or seven was suffering from a physical defect serious enough to retard normal growth and development.

Watch your own child and let your eye sight specialist examine his eyes. Even so small a thing as a pair of glasses may open a new world for the youngster.

NEW EMBASSY IS NOW READY FOR HOUGHTONS

New Structure is Gift of Late J. Pierpont Morgan.

WASHINGTON. — America's new and palatial Embassy in the Prince's Gate district of London will be opened for business and as the residence of the United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James when Ambassador Houghton returns from his summer vacation about two months hence.

The Ambassador and his family have gone north to Haddingdonshire, where they have taken the famous historical estate of Lennoxlove for the summer season. While he is away his private effects will be moved from Crewe House to the new Embassy, and it is anticipated that he will take up residence there when he returns.

Gift of Morgan.

The opening of the new Embassy will afford some considerable financial relief to Ambassador Houghton, it is anticipated. Since he came from Berlin it is stated that he has been paying $200 a week, or over $10,000 a year, for Crewe House as a residence, which takes about another $50 a week to run.

The new Embassy, which is the gift of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is now practically completed. It is made out of two houses in Prince's Gate, and as a whole looks very imposing. One enters a magnificient grand hall, with a cool marble floor and a fine sweeping grand staircase leading to other spacious rooms and salons. The drawing rooms of both houses have been combined and overlook the magnificent panorama of Hyde Park.

Central Press Photo

Marriage hasn't interfered with Estelle Taylor's career. Since she became Mrs. Jack Dempsey, Estelle has increased her film prestige considerably. She recently has been signed to appear in United Artist's productions.

Changes Cost $350,000

Interior structural changes and decorations have cost $350,000. The color scheme of the various salons has been carried out in a wonderful gold and scarlet effect. There are fifty-two rooms altogether, including a delightful suite for Mrs. Houghton, comprising a bedroom, boudoir, and sewing-room, and the Ambassador's own special suite.

American business men in England and others having business with the Embassy, are pleased that the United States is at last to have an Embassy commensurate with the resources of the American Republic.

BANDIT WHITTEMORE DENIED STAY OF EXECUTION BY JUSTICE HOLMES

'Candy' Kid" Gunman Will Pay Death Penalty Tomorrow for Murder of Maryland Prison Guard.

BEVERLY FARMS, Mass., Aug. 12 —Last hope of saving Richard Reese Whittemore, "Candy Kid" gunman, from the hangman's noose in Maryland penitentiary went aglimmering this afternoon when Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court, at his summer home here denied a stay of execution on a writ of error to G. L. Pendleton, negro lawyer, who had hurried here from Baltimore.

Beverly farms was a strange setting for the final appeal of a criminal's life. Justice Holmes has been resting in his summer home. And as the legal battle came before him today sub-debs of the country's society pass the house on their way to the bathing beach or the golf links.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12. — Richard Reese Whittemore, the boy who is reputed to have made a fortune in robbery and squandered it in high living, pays on the gallows at Maryland penitentiary early tomorrow for a hectic career of crime.

Though his counsel, G. L. Pendleton, has gone to New England in an effort to obtain a stay from one of the federal supreme court justices spending the summer in that section, prison officials went ahead today with plans for the hanging at 12:01 A. M. on Friday, the 13th. They anticipate that nothing will stop the execution.

To meet Pendleton's latest move, Rowland K. Adams, deputy state's attorney, also has gone to Boston. He will oppose any appeal which Pendleton lays before any of the justices to delay the hanging.

It is believed that Pendleton went to see Justices Oliver Wendell Holmes at Beverly farms, or Edward Sanford at Nantucket, or Louis D. Brandeis at Chatham, Massachusetts.

As his four of death approaches, Whittemore smokes countless cigarettes, often lighting a new one from the dying ashes of another. He has shown little outward sign of concern over the hanging. He is bearing up well.

His wife, Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, the "Tiger girl," and his father, Rawlings V. Whittemore, will be allowed to visit him but once before night. While the elder Whittemore has no pass, he said he would witness the hanging.

"I want my son to know that his old man stuck by him to the end," he declared.

But Warden Brady declared this morning that none but pass holders would be permitted inside the death chamber. That goes for Whittemore, senior, he explains.

"When tickets were being issued, Mr. Whittemore never sought to obtain one, and now it is too late," said Brady. "I'll issue no more to anybody."

Mrs. Whittemore said she couldn't bear to see the hanging.

Extra police will be stationed about the prison to keep all persons at a distance of four blocks.

The majority of visitors were from the northeastern part of the state.

Music throughout the day was rendered by the Girls' band from the Odd Fellow Home at Springfield. The band arrived at Lisbon Tuesday afternoon, and Tuesday evening gave a concert in the Public Square, and Wednesday the girls were entertained by Lisbon people.

The class was composed of Mary Kille, Salem; Ora Sanor, Piney Fork; Maude Williams, Niles; Isabelle Cartwright, Niles, Lillian Cox, Canfield; Carrie Swartz, Salem; Mrs. Finnigan, Salineville; Mabel Arnold, Salem and Ola Shriver, Salem.

Ladies assisting Major Hahn in the exemplification of this degree were: Mrs. Geo. Schloser, Mrs. Wm. Angeman, Mrs. Lauren Souers and Mrs. Perry D. Eberly, all of Canton; Miss Nettie McBane, East Liverpool; Thalia Idleman, Youngstown; Mrs. Josephine Hahn, Toledo and little Ada Shriver of Salem.

During the ceremony two selections were sung by a mixed quartet from Concordia Lodge of Odd Fellows, Lisbon.

The degree work took place on the race track immediately in front of the grand stand. Within the oval of the race track several hundred automobiles were lined up against the fence, and the grandstand was crowded. The Girls' band was placed in the rear of the grand stand over the main entrance. While the canton was entering the race track the band played a march, and during a part of the ceremony the National anthem was rendered.

The class of women and those assisting Major Hahn were all dressed in white.

Search for Suspect In Mellett Slaying Spreads to East

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Search for one of the suspects in the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton, Ohio, publisher who was shot down July 16 spread to Syracuse today when Chief of Police Martin L. Cadin was asked to look for Patrick Eugene McDermott, 27, believed to be in this city.

A reward of $27,000 has been offered for the capture of McDermott.

Information that the suspect may be in Syracuse was received from Acting Chief of Police Earl Hexamer of Canton. The Canton chief appeals to Chief Cadin asking him to make every effort through his department here to determine whether McDermott is in this section.

PRIMARY VOTE CHANGE URGED

W. B. Hill Speaks on Proposal at Kiwanis Meet.

A plea for approval of the amendment to be submitted at the general election next November to change the Ohio primary system, was voiced by Attorney Walter B. Hill, at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in the Larkins' annex, Market street, today.

Hill asserted the present system is a failure and that fewer voters were taking part in the nominations each year. The old convention system, where candidates were selected by delegates, was better than the present plan, he declared.

C. C. Cline presided at the meeting which was attended by about 40 members. Dr. George E. Lewis, Chester, spoke briefly about his recent trip to Yellowstone National Park. Fred George, Republican nominee for county treasurer, thanked members of the club for their interest in his candidacy.

John Morton discussed the proposed visit of the club to the Clarkson grange. A chicken supper will be served by the grange women.

Rev. Bert R. Johnson condemned the pollution in the Ohio river and urged that the United States conserve its forests and other natural resources as Canada does.

born covered with hair, of course. All unborn human beings in the seventh month, two months before birth, are thickly covered with a hairy down, which disappears before their birth.

The longer prenatal period of the human race provided two extra months for the development of the superior brain, and also got rid of that hair young apes bring into the world, and never get rid of. All this is shocking to the convinced fundamentalist.

SIR DANIEL HALL, food expert tells the Oxford scientific gathering that the earth is in danger of famine. Each year white races alone need millions of acres more for food production.

Population grows fast. But nature's laws will take care of all problems. Henry George pointed out the speed at which a puppy's tail grows. If it kept on growing as fast, each dog would drag a tail many yards long. The human race will not grow faster than the earth can feed it.

At present land is inadequately cultivated. The state of Texas could feed the entire population of the globe, under intensive cultivation, and have plenty to spare.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 12. — A further decline in General Motors to 198 in the early trading today, which also had the effect of unsettling the industrial stock list generally, resulted from a severe assault on the market by the bearish professionals.

Most of the speculative leaders started the day at high price levels, General Motors recovering three points of its losses at its opening price of 206, after a good volume sold at 206¼ to 207. Then the flood gates of selling were opened and the stock declined to 198½, recovering almost as spectacularly to 203¼. United States Steel, Dupont and other prominent industrials also declined.

Leaders in the rally in the second hour were the railroad stocks, the coppers and equipments. Atchison, in the lead of the rails, sold up four points at 143¼, while American Smelting did equally as well as the leader of the copper stocks. Baldwin Locomotive continued buoyant, while in the specialty group Industrial Alcohol and Allied Chemical carried their rallies to slightly higher price levels.

When call money renewed at 4½ per cent, Wall street accepted this as an evidence that the money market would not firm up over the week-end. Cotton continued to move downward, while grain and commodity markets were generally steady.

100 Seats to Cost $110 Each at Earl Carroll's Vanities

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—One hundred seats in the first few rows of Earl Carroll's theatre will cost exactly $110 each on the night when the Vanities open there late this month.

In announcing the price, Carroll stated:

"I was influenced by the boasts of patrons at previous high priced openings that they had paid fabulous sums for their tickets. I reasoned, therefore, that there are many more than a hundred theatre-goers who can pay such a figure without embarrassment."

Jack Dempsey Wins Another Round in Fight for License

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Jack Dempsey won another round today in his battle with the New York state athletic commission but the final decision is not yet in sight.

The commission voted, two to one, in favor of resolution by Commissioner George E. Brower, stating that as Jack Dempsey had agreed to meet Gene Tunney, he should be granted a license by the license committee. The resolution stated that the champion is now in good standing and the license committee should be urged to act at once.

Commissioner William Muldoon voted with Commissioner Brower while Commissioner James A. Farley voted against him.

Commissioner Brower was asked, after the meeting, how the commission would force the license committee to act.

"We can't," frankly answered the commissioner, "I think though that the people of New York City should take some action to force the committee to grant Dempsey a license. Next Monday may be too late. The committee should be forced to meet tomorrow."

Pascul Diaz, acting archbishop of Mexico, said in a statement.

Diaz admitted that all attempts thus far to mediate between the church and the government have been failures. Several volunteer peace-makers, he said, were authorized by the church to try their hands because of the church's disinclination to pass up any chance, however small, for the re-establishment of harmony in the republic.

Accept Challenge to Debate

The Mexican Federation of Labor announced today its conditional acceptance of the challenge issued by the National League for Religious Defense to a series of four debates on the religious situation.

Ricardo Trevino, general secretary of the federation, stipulated that the Catholic orators must present themselves with full documentary proof of the statements they made and must be prepared to answer charges against the clergy from the speakers' platform, or else be prepared to admit the correctness of the charges.

"These debates are no pastime," he said. "But deadly serious events for the purpose of enlightening and formulating public opinion both at home and abroad."

Two Escape Death

ran who was driving heard a whistle, and stopped to let a train pass on the first track. As he was about to cross the second track, another train bore down upon the automobile. Realizing that it was too late to stop the car with th brakes, Cochran stepped on the gas and at the same time turned parallel to the rails and in the opposite direction of that of the train.

The automobile skimmed past the railroad cars for a short distance but a hill rising suddenly before it threw the machine against the speeding cars, tilting it so that the top struck first. The body of the automobile was literally ground off down to the steel frame. The chassis overturned, and the two occupants were buried under a heap of debris. The steering wheel broke off, but Cochran, although remaining in the driver's seat, somehow avoided being pierced by the broken steering column and sustained as his most serious injury a cut requiring seven stitches. Potts was only shaken up. Both continued to Atlantic City by train.

Cochran and Potts explained their failure to b warned of the second train's approach by stating that its whistle probably was merged with that of the first train.

Pete Latzo, Ring Champion, Plunges Through Window

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 12. — Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion, narrowly escaped serious injury at his home here and will be out of the ring for at least a month, it was learned today.

Latzo was putting a screen in a window and was standing on a step ladder when he lost his balance and plunged face forward through the glass in the window. He put up his right arm to protect himself, he said, and a jagged piece of glass inflicted a wound that required three stitches.

Latzo's bout with Joe Simmonich, of Butte, Mont., at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., next Tuesday, has been called off and indications are that the champion will not fight Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, this summer.

QUIZ TROOPERS IN HALL-MILLS MURDER PROBE

Seek Information About Missing State Policeman.

BRIBERY HINTED

Believe Man Knows Facts in New Jersey Crime.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 12.—State troopers who served with Henry L. Dickman, who vanished during the first investigation into the Hall-Mills murders in 1922, will be questioned today regarding reports that the missing state policeman was mysteriously paid a large sum to hide knowledge he had unearthed.

Dickman is believed to be the "Henry Lester Dieckman" serving a year's imprisonment at Alcatraz Island in San Francisco bay for desertion from the army. Whether he will be brought back to New Jersey to be interrogated will depend largely on the result of today's revelations.

Following Dickman's disappearance, it was widely reported that he had learned the identity of the murderers of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, New Brunswick rector, and the clergyman's sweetheart, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

Owing to the wide ramifications of the case which now extend to San Francisco, Senator Simpson, special prosecutor, today clamped the lid of secrecy on the investigation. Names of witnesses were hidden from reporters. "Leaks," which it is said, tipped off prospective witnesses, were given as one of the reasons.

Senator Simpson said that tomorrow will see the climax of the investigation, when it will be decided whether enough evidence exists to bring the accusation of the dual murders pending against Frances Stevens Hall, the rector's widow, before a grand jury.

In the event of a negative decision, it was intimated, dropping of the case against Mrs. Hall will be recommended.

Lightning Causes $200,000 Factory Blaze in Toledo

At noon the fire was still raging and fears for surrounding buildings were entertained.

Wounded in Breast, But Rouges Before Trip to Hospital

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 12.—"Just wait a minute, officers, I'm not going to any hospital until I fix myself up a bit."

So the "officers" waited while Mrs. Lula Gersbacher, 40, with a bullet wound in her left breast, completed the beauty parlor act.

That was at 9 o'clock last night.

Today the woman was not in a serious condition, physicians having dressed the wound when she finally got to General hospital.

She said the shooting was accidental. A note found on her dressing table read:

"Please notify my old pal, Marguerite Saxton, Hotel Arling, Hot Springs, Ark. Thanks to everyone. I am tired. Good luck. God bless the whole bunch.

(Signed) "LULA."

LOS ANGELES' FLIGHT DELAYED

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 12.—The proposed flight of the dirigible Los Angeles today was delayed by poor visibility, Lieut. Commander V. E. Rosendahl said.

The dirigible was to continue its work of radio compass calibrations and it was expected that it would pass over Philadelphia in its flight. Later, the Los Angeles was to moor to the mast of the tender Patoka in Chesapeake Bay.

"We are all ready to go," said Rosendahl, "and if the conditions improve later in the day, we'll get away."

CENTRAL OHIO HELD IN GRIP OF HEAT WAVE

Northern Section Cool as Southern Zone Swelters.

TWO DROWNINGS

Columbus Reports 98 and Middleton 96 at Noon.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—An August heat wave today held the central and southern sections of the state in its grip, while northern Ohio was enjoying comparatively cool weather.

It was 74 degrees in Cleveland at 1 o'clock this afternoon, but 98 at Columbus at that time and 96 at Middletown. Due to showers the heat was tempered at Canton which reported 80. Other reports were: Mansfield, 80; Marion, 87; Lima, 92; Cincinnati, 77, and Newark, 88.

Middletown reported a maximum temperature of 100 degrees and one drowning yesterday. Youngstown, while not reporting a very high temperature, also had a drowning.

Other high temperatures in the state yesterday were Cleveland, 79; Columbus, 96; Dayton, 92; Canton, 92; Lima, 98; Cincinnati, 94; Marion, 93; Mansfield, 92, and Newark, 91.

Minres Found Alive

home. Watson showed the spirit of the men when he announced:

"Make no arrangements to ride me home—give me my mule and I'll ride there."

Aside from the lack of food and the feeling of uncertainty of their release, the men said they suffered no serious ill effects from their imprisonment. Two small streams run through the section of the level where they were confined and this furnished them with plenty of water.

Hundreds in Rescue Work.

The rescue was affected after hundreds of men from nearby mines worked tirelessly day and night for a week attempting to reach the "tomb" of the men.

Under the direction of A. M. Shelby, an engineer, drilling was started at several points in an effort to get air and food to the men. A new shaft also was being sunk and pumps were operated from the main shaft in an effort to clear the level of the debris.

The rescue was in line with the prediction of veteran miners. These veterans surveyed the passages of the mine and said they were convinced that air was reaching the men and that unless they were caught beneath the mass of mud and rock they would be found alive.

Freeman Cobb, brother of Randolph and brother-in-law of James, was the one who reached the men first. He had gone down into the mine early this morning with a lamp and was exploring the level, when the figures of two of the men came crawling through the muck towards him.

A half hour later all the men were brought safely through the main shaft.

Records of Mine Entombments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Only 20 men in American mining history have been entombed alive longer than the five men rescued this morning from the Zinc and Spar company mine at Salem, Ky., according to bureau of mine records today.

Whereas, the men at Salem lived 153 hours in the closed mine, 20 men entombed in Cherry mine, Ill., in 1909, came out alive after 169½ hours. The number who perished in Cherry mine, however, totaled more than 290.

One man lived 30 days entombed in the Courieres mine disaster in France in 1906, after 1,100 of his fellow miners had died, records showed. This was the longest entombment on record. He subsisted on scraps of food found in the mine.

TWO OHIOANS ARE DROWNED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 12.—Harold Jackson, 11, was drowned today in Lake Glacier, Mill Creek park. He was seized with cramps while swimming in deep water. It was the third drowning in the lake this summer.

MIDDLETON, O., Aug. 12.—The treacherous currents of Miami river near the Poasttown bridge have claimed another victim. George Flack, 43, of this city, lost his life while seeking relief in the river from last night's heat. Robert Spears and H. C. Moore were almost drowned trying to rescue Flack. Spears was unconscious for an hour afterwards. Flack's body was recovered by his brother, Frank.

ing conditions and wage increases in some departments of the general ware industry.

Among the officials of both organizations, the opinion prevails that the agreement in effect for the past two years will be continued with perhaps minor changes. One of the principal reasons cited for this belief is foreign competitions. It is pointed out that Japan, Germany, Czecho-Slovakia and England are selling increasing quantities of general ware pottery in the American market, and that some of the countries enjoy a low tariff, due to valuation of the merchandise for tariff purposes on the basis of prices abroad, where exchange rates reduce the value.

Boy Dies of Burns.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12.—Douglas Miller, 3, died early today of burns received Sunday when stove exploded in the child's home.

BANDIT WHITTEMORE DENIED STAY OF EXECUTION BY JUSTICE HOLMES

'Candy' Kid" Gunman Will Pay Death Penalty Tomorrow for Murder of Maryland Prison Guard.

BEVERLY FARMS, Mass., Aug. 12 —Last hope of saving Richard Reese Whittemore, "Candy Kid" gunman, from the hangman's noose in Maryland penitentiary went aglimmering this afternoon when Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court, at his summer home here denied a stay of execution on a writ of error to G. L. Pendleton, negro lawyer, who had hurried here from Baltimore.

Beverly farms was a strange setting for the final appeal of a criminal's life. Justice Holmes has been resting in his summer home. And as the legal battle came before him today sub-debs of the country's society pass the house on their way to the bathing beach or the golf links.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12. — Richard Reese Whittemore, the boy who is reputed to have made a fortune in robbery and squandered it in high living, pays on the gallows at Maryland penitentiary early tomorrow for a hectic career of crime.

Though his counsel, G. L. Pendleton, has gone to New England in an effort to obtain a stay from one of the federal supreme court justices spending the summer in that section, prison officials went ahead today with plans for the hanging at 12:01 A. M. on Friday, the 13th. They anticipate that nothing will stop the execution.

To meet Pendleton's latest move, Howland K. Adams, deputy state's attorney, also has gone to Boston. He will oppose any appeal which Pendleton lays before any of the justices to delay the hanging.

It is believed that Pendleton went to see Justices Oliver Wendell Holmes at Beverly farms, or Edward Sanford at Nantucket, or Louis D. Brandeis at Chatham, Massachusetts.

As his four of death approaches, Whittemore smokes countless cigarettes, often lighting a new one from the dying ashes of another. He has shown little outward sign of concern over the hanging. He is bearing up well.

His wife, Mrs. Margaret Whittemore, the "Tiger girl," and his father, Rawlings V. Whittemore, will be allowed to visit him but once before night. While the elder Whittemore has no pass, he said he would witness the hanging.

"I want my son to know that his old man stuck by him to the end," he declared.

But Warden Brady declared this morning that none but pass holders would be permitted inside the death chamber. That goes for Whittemore, senior, he explains.

"When tickets were being issued, Mr. Whittemore never sought to obtain one, and now it is too late," said Brady. "I'll issue no more to anybody."

Mrs. Whittemore said she couldn't bear to see the hanging.

Extra police will be stationed about the prison to keep all persons at a distance of four blocks.

3,000 WITNESS LODGE DEGREE

Decoration of Chivalry Conferred at I. O. O. F. Outing.

With every head bared, 3,000 people witnessed the conferring of the decoration of Chivalry upon a class of 10 women by Major General Fred H. A. Hahn, of Toledo, Commander of the Patriarchs Militant of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at the county fair grounds at 6 o'clock last night.

This was the closing feature of the first annual state picnic of lodges arranged by a committee of which J. D. Caldwell of Lisbon was chairman and Miss Ethel McCain of East Liverpool was secretary.

The majority of visitors were from the northeastern part of the state.

Music throughout the day was rendered by the Girls' band from the Odd Fellow Home at Springfield. The band arrived at Lisbon Tuesday afternoon, and Tuesday evening gave a concert in the Public Square, and Wednesday the girls were entertained by Lisbon people.

The class was composed of Mary Kille, Salem; Ora Sanor, Piney Fork; Maude Williams, Niles; Isabelle Cartwright, Niles, Lillian Cox, Canfield; Carrie Swartz, Salem; Mrs. Finnigan, Salineville; Mabel Arnold, Salem and Ola Shriver, Salem.

Ladies assisting Major Hahn in the exemplification of this degree were: Mrs. Geo. Schloser, Mrs. Wm. Angeman, Mrs. Lauren Souers and Mrs. Perry D. Eberly, all of Canton; Miss Nettie McBane, East Liverpool; Thalia Idleman, Youngstown; Mrs. Josephine Hahn, Toledo and little Ada Shriver of Salem.

During the ceremony two selections were sung by a mixed quartet from Concordia Lodge of Odd Fellows, Lisbon.

The degree work took place on the race track immediately in front of the grand stand. Within the oval of the race track several hundred automobiles were lined up against the fence, and the grandstand was crowded. The Girls' band was placed in the rear of the grand stand over the main entrance. While the canton was entering the race track the band played a march, and during a part of the ceremony the National anthem was rendered.

The class of women and those assisting Major Hahn were all dressed in white.

Search for Suspect In Mellett Slaying Spreads to East

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Search for one of the suspects in the slaying of Don R. Mellett, Canton, Ohio, publisher who was shot down July 16 spread to Syracuse today when Chief of Police Martin L. Cadin was asked to look for Patrick Eugene McDermott, 27, believed to be in this city.

A reward of $27,000 has been offered for the capture of McDermott.

Information that the suspect may be in Syracuse was received from Acting Chief of Police Earl Hexamer of Canton. The Canton chief appeals to Chief Cadin asking him to make every effort through his department here to determine whether McDermott is in this section.

PRIMARY VOTE CHANGE URGED

W. B. Hill Speaks on Proposal at Kiwanis Meet.

A plea for approval of the amendment to be submitted at the general election next November to change the Ohio primary system, was voiced by Attorney Walter B. Hill, at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in the Larkins' annex, Market street, today.

Hill asserted the present system is a failure and that fewer voters were taking part in the nominations each year. The old convention system, where candidates were selected by delegates, was better than the present plan, he declared.

C. C. Cline presided at the meeting which was attended by about 40 members. Dr. George E. Lewis, Chester, spoke briefly about his recent trip to Yellowstone National Park. Fred George, Republican nominee for county treasurer, thanked members of the club for their interest in his candidacy.

John Morton discussed the proposed visit of the club to the Clarkson grange. A chicken supper will be served by the grange women.

Rev. Bert R. Johnson condemned the pollution in the Ohio river and urged that the United States conserve its forests and other natural resources as Canada does.

born covered with hair, of course. All unborn human beings in the seventh month, two months before birth, are thickly covered with a hairy down, which disappears before their birth.

The longer prenatal period of the human race provided two extra months for the development of the superior brain, and also got rid of that hair young apes bring into the world, and never get rid of. All this is shocking to the convinced fundamentalist.

SIR DANIEL HALL, food expert tells the Oxford scientific gathering that the earth is in danger of famine. Each year white races alone need millions of acres more for food production.

Population grows fast. But nature's laws will take care of all problems. Henry George pointed out the speed at which a puppy's tail grows. If it kept on growing as fast, each dog would drag a tail many yards long. The human race will not grow faster than the earth can feed it.

At present land is inadequately cultivated. The state of Texas could feed the entire population of the globe, under intensive cultivation, and have plenty to spare.

STUTTGART, Germany, Aug. 12. — Stuttgart was in gala array today in honor of Gertrude Ederle.

The American girl who conquered the English channel in record time, is due to arrive here at 5 o'clock this afternoon to visit her grandmother and she will be given a public reception by the municipal authorities and German swimming clubs and members of the New York Volkfest Verein, who are now touring Germany.

Although Miss Ederle's plans call for her returning to the United States on August 21, it is hoped that she will delay her return in order to participate in a swimming meet in the Neckar river, near here, on August 22.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 — A further decline in General Motors to 198 in the early trading today, which also had the effect of unsettling the industrial stock list generally, resulted from a severe assault on the market by the bearish professionals.

Most of the speculative leaders started the day at high price levels, General Motors recovering three points of its losses at its opening price of 206, after a good volume sold at 206¼ to 207. Then the flood gates of selling were opened and the stock declined to 198½, recovering almost as spectacularly to 203¼. United States Steel, Dupont and other prominent industrials also declined.

Leaders in the rally in the second hour were the railroad stocks, the coppers and equipments. Atchison, in the lead of the rails, sold up four points at 143¾, while American Smelting did equally as well as the leader of the copper stocks. Baldwin Locomotive continued buoyant, while in the specialty group Industrial Alcohol and Allied Chemical carried their rallies to slightly higher price levels.

When call money renewed at 4½ per cent, Wall street accepted this as an evidence that the money market would not firm up over the week-end. Cotton continued to move downward, while grain and commodity markets were generally steady.

100 Seats to Cost $110 Each at Earl Carroll's Vanities

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—One hundred seats in the first few rows of Earl Carroll's theatre will cost exactly $110 each on the night when the Vanities open there late this month.

In announcing the price, Carroll stated:

"I was influenced by the boasts of patrons at previous high priced openings that they had paid fabulous sums for their tickets. I reasoned, therefore, that there are many more than a hundred theatre-goers who can pay such a figure without embarrassment."

Jack Dempsey Wins Another Round in Fight for License

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Jack Dempsey won another round today in his battle with the New York state athletic commission but the final decision is not yet in sight.

The commission voted, two to one, in favor of resolution by Commissioner George E. Brower, stating that as Jack Dempsey had agreed to meet Gene Tunney, he should be granted a license by the license committee. The resolution stated that the champion is now in good standing and the license committee should be urged to act at once.

Commissioner William Muldoon voted with Commissioner Brower while Commissioner James A. Farley voted against him.

Commissioner Brower was asked, after the meeting, how the commission would force the license committee to act.

"We can't," frankly answered the commissioner, "I think though that the people of New York City should take some action to force the committee to grant Dempsey a license. Next Monday may be too late. The committee should be forced to meet tomorrow."

Pascul Diaz, acting archbishop of Mexico, said in a statement.

Diaz admitted that all attempts thus far to mediate between the church and the government have been failures. Several volunteer peace-makers, he said, were authorized by the church to try their hands because of the church's disinclination to pass up any chance, however small, for the re-establishment of harmony in the republic.

Accept Challenge to Debate

The Mexican Federation of Labor announced today its conditional acceptance of the challenge issued by the National League for Religious Defense to a series of four debates on the religious situation.

Ricardo Trevino, general secretary of the federation, stipulated that the Catholic orators must present themselves with full documentary proof of the statements they made and must be prepared to answer charges against the clergy from the speakers' platform, or else be prepared to admit the correctness of the charges.

"These debates are no pastime," he said. "But deadly serious events for the purpose of enlightening and formulating public opinion both at home and abroad."

Two Escape Death

ran who was driving heard a whistle, and stopped to let a train pass on the first track. As he was about to cross the second track, another train bore down upon the automobile. Realizing that it was too late to stop the car with th brakes, Cochran stepped on the gas and at the same time turned parallel to the rails and in the opposite direction of that of the train.

The automobile skimmed past the railroad cars for a short distance but a hill rising suddenly before it threw the machine against the speeding cars, tilting it so that the top struck first. The body of the automobile was literally ground off down to the steel frame. The chassis overturned, and the two occupants were buried under a heap of debris. The steering wheel broke off, but Cochran, although remaining in the driver's seat, somehow avoided being pierced by the broken steering column and sustained as his most serious injury a cut requiring seven stitches. Potts was only shaken up. Both continued to Atlantic City by train.

Cochran and Potts explained their failure to b warned of the second train's approach by stating that its whistle probably was merged with that of the first train.

Pete Latzo, Ring Champion, Plunges Through Window

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 12. — Pete Latzo, world's welterweight champion, narrowly escaped serious injury at his home here and will be out of the ring for at least a month, it was learned today.

Latzo was putting a screen in a window and was standing on a step ladder when he lost his balance and plunged face forward through the glass in the window. He put up his right arm to protect himself, he said, and a jagged piece of glass inflicted a wound that required three stitches.

Latzo's bout with Joe Simmonich, of Butte, Mont., at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., next Tuesday, has been called off and indications are that the champion will not fight Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, this summer.

QUIZ TROOPERS IN HALL-MILLS MURDER PROBE

Seek Information About Missing State Policeman.

BRIBERY HINTED

Believe Man Knows Facts in New Jersey Crime.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 12.—State troopers who served with Henry L. Dickman, who vanished during the first investigation into the Hall-Mills murders in 1922, will be questioned today regarding reports that the missing state policeman was mysteriously paid a large sum to hide knowledge he had unearthed.

Dickman is believed to be the "Henry Lester Dieckman" serving a year's imprisonment at Alcatraz Island in San Francisco bay for desertion from the army. Whether he will be brought back to New Jersey to be interrogated will depend largely on the result of today's revelations.

Following Dickman's disappearance, it was widely reported that he had learned the identity of the murderers of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, New Brunswick rector, and the clergyman's sweetheart, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

Owing to the wide ramifications of the case which now extend to San Francisco, Senator Simpson, special prosecutor, today clamped the lid of secrecy on the investigation. Names of witnesses were hidden from reporters. "Leaks," which it is said, tipped off prospective witnesses, were given as one of the reasons.

Senator Simpson said that tomorrow will see the climax of the investigation, when it will be decided whether enough evidence exists to bring the accusation of the dual murders pending against Frances Stevens Hall, the rector's widow, before a grand jury.

In the event of a negative decision, it was intimated, dropping of the case against Mrs. Hall will be recommended.

Wounded in Breast, But Rouges Before Trip to Hospital

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 12.—"Just wait a minute, officers, I'm not going to any hospital until I fix myself up a bit."

So the "officers" waited while Mrs. Lula Gersbacher, 40, with a bullet wound in her left breast, completed the beauty parlor act.

That was at 9 o'clock last night.

Today the woman was not in a serious condition, physicians having dressed the wound when she finally got to General hospital.

She said the shooting was accidental. A note found on her dressing table read:

"Please notify my old pal, Marguerite Saxton, Hotel Arling, Hot Springs, Ark. Thanks to everyone. I am tired. Good luck. God bless the whole bunch.

(Signed) "LULA."

LOS ANGELES' FLIGHT DELAYED

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 12.—The proposed flight of the dirigible Los Angeles today was delayed by poor visibility, Lieut. Commander V. E. Rosendahl said.

The dirigible was to continue its work of radio compass calibrations and it was expected that it would pass over Philadelphia in its flight. Later, the Los Angeles was to moor to the mast of the tender Patoka in Chesapeake Bay.

"We are all ready to go," said Rosendahl, "and if the conditions improve later in the day, we'll get away."

home. Watson showed the spirit of the men when he announced:

"Make no arrangements to ride me home—give me my mule and I'll ride there."

Aside from the lack of food and the feeling of uncertainty of their release, the men said they suffered no serious ill effects from their imprisonment. Two small streams run through the section of the level where they were confined and this furnished them with plenty of water.

Hundreds in Rescue Work.

The rescue was affected after hundreds of men from nearby mines worked tirelessly day and night for a week attempting to reach the "tomb" of the men.

Under the direction of A. M. Shelby, an engineer, drilling was started at several points in an effort to get air and food to the men. A new shaft also was being sunk and pumps were operated from the main shaft in an effort to clear the level of the debris.

The rescue was in line with the prediction of veteran miners. These veterans surveyed the passages of the mine and said they were convinced that air was reaching the men and that unless they were caught beneath the mass of mud and rock they would be found alive.

Freeman Cobb, brother of Randolph and brother-in-law of James, was the one who reached the men first. He had gone down into the mine early this morning with a lamp and was exploring the level, when the figures of two of the men came crawling through the muck towards him.

A half hour later all the men were brought safely through the main shaft.

Records of Mine Entombments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Only 20 men in American mining history have been entombed alive longer than the five men rescued this morning from the Zinc and Spar company mine at Salem, Ky., according to bureau of mine records today.

Whereas, the men at Salem lived 153 hours in the closed mine, 20 men entombed in Cherry mine, Ill., in 1909, came out alive after 169½ hours. The number who perished in Cherry mine, however, totaled more than 290.

One man lived 30 days entombed in the Courieres mine disaster in France in 1906, after 1,100 of his fellow miners had died, records showed. This was the longest entombment on record. He subsisted on scraps of food found in the mine.

TWO OHIOANS ARE DROWNED

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 12.—Harold Jackson, 11, was drowned today in Lake Glacier, Mill Creek park. He was seized with cramps while swimming in deep water. It was the third drowning in the lake this summer.

MIDDLETON, O., Aug. 12.—The treacherous currents of Miami river near the Poasttown bridge have claimed another victim. George Flack, 43, of this city, lost his life while seeking relief in the river from last night's heat. Robert Spears and H. C. Moore were almost drowned trying to rescue Flack. Spears was unconscious for an hour afterwards. Flack's body was recovered by his brother, Frank.

Renewal of Agreement

ing conditions and wage increases in some departments of the general ware industry.

Among the officials of both organizations, the opinion prevails that the agreement in effect for the past two years will be continued with perhaps minor changes. One of the principal reasons cited for this belief is foreign competitions. It is pointed out that Japan, Germany, Czecho-Slovakia and England are selling increasing quantities of general ware pottery in the American market, and that some of the countries enjoy a low tariff, due to valuation of the merchandise for tariff purposes on the basis of prices abroad, where exchange rates reduce the value.

Boy Dies of Burns.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 12.—Douglas Miller, 3, died early today of burns received Sunday when stove exploded in the child's home.

BERNSTORFF IS CENTER OF ANOTHER ROW

Once German Ambassador to U. S. Heckled in Wales.

LONDON DIVIDED

Agitators are Ejected While Speaker is Cheered.

LONDON.—Count Bernstorff, Germany's last Imperial Ambassador to the United States, and now one of the leading diplomats of the German Republic, has become the center of a row which threatens to disrupt the League of Nations Union of Great Britain.

As president of the German League of Nations Union, Bernstorff attended and addressed a meeting at Aberystwyth, Wales, of the International Federation of League of Nation societies. The meeting was marked by imprecations hurled at the kaiser's former ambassador by one or two persons in the audience, but the agitators were promptly ejected, and Bernstorff was given three cheers by the assembled delegates.

This, however, was not the end of Bernstorff's troubles in Britain, for Sir Valentine Chirol, the journalist and author, who is chairman of the influential Chelsea branch of the League of Nations Union, immediately took up the cudgel against Bernstorff, declaring that he knew him "of old as one of the ablest instruments of German aggressive Imperialism."

Disputes Arises.

He declared that to permit the ex-Ambassador to appear on a platform in England under the aegis of the League of Nations Union was "little short of an outrage on international decency and must necessarily tend to create a strong reaction against the movement for reconciliation with Germany."

Defending Count Bernstoroff, Professor Gilbert Murray, chairman of the British League of Nations Union, said that it would be improper for the British Union to dictate to the German society what president it should elect or what representative it should send to this country.

To Chirols' statement that Bernstorff was "closely associated in the minds of Englishmen with the sinking of the Lusitania, not to speak of the plots and deeds of violence notoriously engineered by his Military and Naval attaches at Washington." Murray replied that Bernstorff's policy was to prevent a breach between Germany and the United States, and that he strongly opposed unrestricted submarine warfare.

Urges Friendliness.

"It is clear," said Murray, "if we are to have any effective League of Nations we must have an amnesty in the matter of war charges and a truce from those angry memories which every nation can summon up only too easily."

Maintaining that he represented the fellings of a large number of people, Sir Valentine has refused to accept Murray's view, insisting that Bernstorff should have been informed that he would be persona non grata in Great Britain, and has resigned from the League of Nations Union. Professor Murray, meanwhile, is anxiously trying to patch up the quarrel.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

This department is one place where all the questions from those of the child to those of his elders are answered with care and dispatch. The mother who wants to know about the latest styles in sweaters, the boy who wants to know how to make a bird house, or the man who wants specific instructions about using concrete around the home are all given the same degree of expert instruction and information. We can share only a small part of these interesting questions with our readers but we conduct an intimate, personal service by mail. Send your question, with two cents in stamps for return postage, to the East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

WHEN young mothers of today visit the homes of their grown-up daughters, electric ranges will be used in every home—"cooking by wire" will be the accepted method.

There is no good reason why you should not enjoy the clean, uniform heat of an electric range with its automatic "turn on and off" regulator right now. Our special rate for cooking service puts electric "fuel" within the means of every household.

Ask your electrical dealer to show you how you can place your evening dinner in the oven during the morning — set the clock and regulator — then go out for the day and forget it.

BERNSTORFF IS CENTER OF ANOTHER ROW

Once German Ambassador to U. S. Heckled in Wales.

LONDON DIVIDED

Agitators are Ejected While Speaker is Cheered.

LONDON.—Count Bernstorff, Germany's last Imperial Ambassador to the United States, and now one of the leading diplomats of the German Republic, has become the center of a row which threatens to disrupt the League of Nations Union of Great Britain.

As president of the German League of Nations Union, Bernstorff attended and addressed a meeting at Aberystwyth, Wales, of the International Federation of League of Nation societies. The meeting was marked by imprecations hurled at the kaiser's former ambassador by one or two persons in the audience, but the agitators were promptly ejected, and Bernstorff was given three cheers by the assembled delegates.

This, however, was not the end of Bernstorff's troubles in Britain, for Sir Valentine Chirol, the journalist and author, who is chairman of the influential Chelsea branch of the League of Nations Union, immediately took up the cudgel against Bernstorff, declaring that he knew him "of old as one of the ablest instruments of German aggressive Imperialism."

Disputes Arises.

He declared that to permit the ex-Ambassador to appear on a platform in England under the aegis of the League of Nations Union was "little short of an outrage on international decency and must necessarily tend to create a strong reaction against the movement for reconciliation with Germany."

Defending Count Bernstoroff, Professor Gilbert Murray, chairman of the British League of Nations Union, said that it would be improper for the British Union to dictate to the German society what president it should elect or what representative it should send to this country.

To Chirols' statement that Bernstorff was "closely associated in the minds of Englishmen with the sinking of the Lusitania, not to speak of the plots and deeds of violence notoriously engineered by his Military and Naval attaches at Washington." Murray replied that Bernstorff's policy was to prevent a breach between Germany and the United States, and that he strongly opposed unrestricted submarine warfare.

Urges Friendliness.

"It is clear," said Murray, "if we are to have any effective League of Nations we must have an amnesty in the matter of war charges and a truce from those angry memories which every nation can summon up only too easily."

Maintaining that he represented the fellings of a large number of people, Sir Valentine has refused to accept Murray's view, insisting that Bernstorff should have been informed that he would be persona non grata in Great Britain, and has resigned from the League of Nations Union. Professor Murray, meanwhile, is anxiously trying to patch up the quarrel.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

This department is one place where all the questions from those of the child to those of his elders are answered with care and dispatch. The mother who wants to know about the latest styles in sweaters, the boy who wants to know how to make a bird house, or the man who wants specific instructions about using concrete around the home are all given the same degree of expert instruction and information. We can share only a small part of these interesting questions with our readers but we conduct an intimate, personal service by mail. Send your question, with two cents in stamps for return postage, to the East Liverpool Review-Tribune Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Is attendance at baseball games increasing or decreasing? G. V. N.

A. Figures for the current season have not been compiled. Last year the National league reported a large increase in attendance, while the American league teams played to 68,000 less than in 1924.

Q. Was the late George Washington Cable a journalist? H. H. T.

A. Cable was an accountant before his contributions to the New Orleans Picayune won him a place on the staff of that paper. Later he resumed his profession as an accountant until 1879 when he decided to devote himself entirely to literary work.

Q. Where is the headquarters of the American Historial Association? W. W.

A. Room 1140 Woodward Building, Washington, D. C.

Q. How much building was done in Florida last year? N. S. M.

A. Construction expenditures totaling $225,000,000 were recorded in Florida in 1925.

Q. Did the Indians communicate with each other at night by flaming arrows? N. J.

A. James Mooney gives the following regarding shooting a flaming arrow at night as a signal: "Methods of setting fire to an enemy's camp or fortified village by means of lighted combustibles attached to arrows were in general use down to a recent period. but the statement by one author that the Sioux had an elaborate system of signalling at night by means of fiery arrows requires confirmation."

Q. How many calories are there in watermelon? L. A.

A. The average number of calories in the edible portion of watermelon is 140 per pound.

Q. When was George Washington University founded? M. G. K.

A. The George Washington University is the successor of the Columbian College in the District of Columbia which was chartered by an act of Congress approved February 9, 1821. In 1873 the name was changed to Columbian University and in 1904 to The George Washington University. The first commencement of Columbian College was held on the 15th. of December, 1824, with the President of the United States, the Honorable John Quincy Adams, Secretary of State, the Honorable John C. Calhoun, Secretary of War, the Honorable Henry Clay, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and General Lafayette among those present.

Q. How many times in a year is the moon eclipsed? S. B.

A. The Naval Observatory says there are never more than three eclipses of the moon in a year, and in some years none at all. The moon is eclipsed only when it is near one of the nodes of its orbit at the time of full moon, the nodes being the two points at which the moon's orbit passes through the plane of the earth's orbit.

Q. Is the red canned salmon colored? M. W. C.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that the difference in color of the salmon is due to the type of salmon. The various species have different colors; for instance, there are the white, the pink, and the red salmon. The color, however, does not effect the food value.

Q. How does Canada's trade with the United States compare with her rade with Great Britain? K. J.

A. In the last fiscal year, 66 per cent of Canada's import trade was carried on with the United States and 22 per cent with countries of the British Empire, 17 per cent being with the United Kingdom. However, while the United States took 36 per cent of Canadian exports, 45 per cent went to Empire countries, 38 per cent being to the United Kingdom.

Q. How many of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence were college men? A. M. E.

A. The Bureau of Education says that 23 of the 56 signers were collegebred, nearly all of them graduates. Harvard was represented by 8; William and Mary by 3; Yale, 3; Cambridge (England), 8; Princeton, 2, "Philadelphia," 2; Edinburgh, 1; Jesuit Colege at Rheims, 1. Sixteen others received "excellent" or "classical" education, one of them at Westminster schol, London. Two obtained all their formal instruction from tutors; and 16, including Franklin, Wythe, Roger Sherman, and Robert Morris, had but little schooling.

Q. If the figure of Neptune, before the Library of Congress, were a standing one how tall would it be? B. B. P.

A. About twelve feet.

Q. What is a communique? W. W. F.

Wyndham Standing, who appears as Gerald Shannon in the George Fitzmaurice production, "The Dark Angel," the First National picture featuring Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky at the American theatre is a native of London.

He was educated at Charterhouse and Dublin university, soon thereafter taking up a stage career. He appeared with Sir Henry Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, Sir Herbert Berbohm Tree and Sir Charles Ingraham and in productions of Comstock and Gest, William A. Brady and Winthrop Ames in London and New York. "Ave Maria," "The Iron Trail," "The Bride's Play," "Hypocrisy," "The Isle of Conquest," "Rose of the World," "Law of the Land," "Witness for the Defense," "The Temperamental Wife," "The Miracle of Love," "Eyes of the Soul," "Earthbound," "Smilin Through" and "The Gold Diggers" were his most recent picture appearances.

He has just retuned from an extended English engagement and also made some pictures upon the continent during his absencce.

In "The Dark Angel" Standing has a most sympathetic role, that of an altogether gentlemanly and honorable rival of Ronald Colman, for the hand of dainty Vilma Banky. She is the charming Hungarian player recently brought over from Budapest by Samuel Goldwyn.

Mrs. Jane Jones, who occupied the smallest house in Great Britain, died at Conway recently in her diminutive home, which was six feet wide and ten feet deep.

More than 1,100 pianos and pianolas were sent from America to New Zealand in the past year.

"DARK ANGEL" AT AMERICAN

Wyndham Standing, who appears as Gerald Shannon in the George Fitzmaurice production, "The Dark Angel," the First National picture featuring Ronald Colman and Vilma Banky at the American theatre is a native of London.

He was educated at Charterhouse and Dublin university, soon thereafter taking up a stage career. He appeared with Sir Henry Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Kendal, Sir Herbert Berbohm Tree and Sir Charles Ingraham and in productions of Comstock and Gest, William A. Brady and Winthrop Ames in London and New York. "Ave Maria," "The Iron Trail," "The Bride's Play," "Hypocrisy," "The Isle of Conquest," "Rose of the World," "Law of the Land," "Witness for the Defense," "The Temperamental Wife," "The Miracle of Love," "Eyes of the Soul," "Earthbound," "Smilin Through" and "The Gold Diggers" were his most recent picture appearances.

He has just retuned from an extended English engagement and also made some pictures upon the continent during his absencce.

In "The Dark Angel" Standing has a most sympathetic role, that of an altogether gentlemanly and honorable rival of Ronald Colman, for the hand of dainty Vilma Banky. She is the charming Hungarian player recently brought over from Budapest by Samuel Goldwyn.

Mrs. Jane Jones, who occupied the smallest house in Great Britain, died at Conway recently in her diminutive home, which was six feet wide and ten feet deep.

More than 1,100 pianos and pianolas were sent from America to New Zealand in the past year.

License Committee Will Not Act Today On Champ's Request

Col. Phelan Declines Brower's Invitation To Special Meeting

Won't Get Together Again Until Next Week, He Says; in Meantime, Delay is Hurting Dempsey, Both Mentally and Physically.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The merry run-around that Jack Dempsey is getting in New York will be continued today when the state athletic commission will meet with the idea of paving the way for the champion to get his license but the license committee will not be there to give it to him.

This fact was made known today when Col. John J. Phelan, chairman of the license committee, informed the writer that he had declined George E. Brower's invitation to be present at a special meeting, called with the idea of placing the Dempsey-Tunney match definitely on the books. Col. Phelan declined to say why he would not be present.

"No reason at all," he said, airily. "We have had our meeting this week and will not call another until next week, probably Monday. The question of Dempsey's license can be taken up again then. The commission and my committee have been meeting separately for some weeks. I plan to keep this program in effect."

Won't Tell Plans.

He refuses to commit himself as to what action he would take when the matter did come before him. So did Tex Rickard and Gene Normile, speaking for the champion, both refusing to anticipate the situation by stating where they would take the bout in the event that it was definitely turned down here. They have Philadelphia, Baltimore and Jersey City in mind.

That, however, is beyond the point, which is that all this hocuspocus and rabbit-out-of-the-sleeve business has done the heavyweight champion practically no good. The writer would say, offhand, that the delay at this end has set Dempsey back two weeks, mentally if not physically.

Round-eyed experts who have stood about in whispering groups as Dempsey works out between flat-footing at the Flatiron building, say the champion looks great. I say that what his three year layoff has failed to do to him, this run-around here quite possibly will achieve.

When they stood him outside the commission offices for four hours on Tuesday, they tacitly declared an open season on Jack Dempsey for all the saps in town. Hedged in by Joe Windmill and kindred human ailments, he was the prey of every pest who happened along.

They brought him back yesterday to be mauled and hauled by souvenir hunters and all the rest of the I-was-there guys. Add to this the mental blackjacking involved in delaying the issue of a license and your have a picture of the heavyweight champion in training while his opponent gets the benefit of a quiet, effective day in camp.

May Ask Postponement.

It all narrows down to this: Tex Rickard is likely to ask today for a postponement of the Dempsey-Tunney match from September 16 to September 23, for the dual reason that a week's delay will react to the dual benefit of his champion and his box office.

First, however, Tex will make certain of Dempsey's license and may become so enamored of the accomplishment that he will forget other business, even that very vital matter of a $40 "top" for tickets.

The procedure today, as I understand it, is for Rickard and Dempsey to go before the commission with a Dempsey-Tunney contract, which will fulfill the rules of the board. It will be signed by Tunney but Dempsey's signature must wait until they turn up that hole card and produce the dear old license.

You know how those things are. Everything must be done in a businesslike and orderly manner.

The boy can then leave for his training camp, a wiser but possibly not a better man for his experience.

Of course, Jack Dempsey may defend his title successfully and Tex Rickard may make money on the transaction. But in neither case will it be the fault of the men who run boxing in this state.

Champ, Challenger Exchange Grins and Plan September Mauling Fracas

Maybe. Perhaps. Also—if. At any rate it is just possible that Gene Tunney, left, and Jack Dempsey will meet in the Yankee Stadium sometime about September 16. They are seen above conversing amiably in the office of the N. Y. State License Commission, where Gene and Jack found more difficulty. However, business of striking an heroic pose, the fight must go on!

INSIDE Ggolf

By CHESTER HORTON,

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Thinking ahead of the swing is another mental aspect of golf that, as a habit, keeps many struggling players in the duffer class without their ever knowing what causes them so many upsets. Thinking ahead of things is this: When you prepare to execute a shot, you first make a quick mental survey of what you are to do in the matter of projecting the ball. Usually this implies that it is to be sent straight ahead. From that point, forget the shot as a shot and think of the swing. Visualize a rhythmic, easy swing of the club through the ball and think all the time in the terms of the swing. If, while preparing for the swing, and making it, you are thinking of the projection of the ball and what it is going to do, you are thinking ahead of things.

Letter Men Advance Training Camp Fund

Will Contribute $100 as Starter Toward Amount Necessary to Finance Blue and White's Visit Next Month to Pine Ridge.

THE East Liverpool Letter Men's association, organized several years ago for the purpose of assisting in the development and encouragement of athletics in the high school, held its first meeting of the year last night in the high school building.

Plans were discussed for the association's participation in the Blue and White's football campaign which is not very far way, a matter of a month or so, to be exact, and the association took a forward step in gathering up $100 which will be donated to Coach Kidder to aid in defraying training camp expenses.

The letter men can prove a powerful factor in placing East Liverpool football on a higher plane, where, by all means, it should be, considering the wealth of material which ordinarily the school has to select from, and its various athletic conveniences.

The association's action in digging down into its pocket and bringing out a century note is the kind of help that counts, help of the tangible, concrete variety.

Although Coach Kidder has not taken inventory yet, there is no indication of any unusual lack of new football timber this fall to throw in between the veterans that were left over from last season, one of the problems that always bobs up in September, and which ready response from the incoming classes will go a long way toward solving.

The average high school coach has no bed of roses, although he usually draws a complete allotment of thorns. It's a big job and all the help that the letter men can provide will be of no small value to the Blue and White mentor. And Kidder, well qualified as a gridiron tactician and leader, will appreciate the organization's services.

The letter men have capable officers and directors and their efforts should go a long way toward boosting school athletics.

Give Up O. & P. Ball.

Acting on the belief that Youngstown baseball fans are fed up on O. & P. league ball, directors of the Youngstown General Tires plan to cancel as many of the remaining league contests at home as possible and book in independent attractions.

The new policy starts off with the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game against the Tires next Sunday. The Philadelphia Nationals will return to Idora park August 22 to make up for two unexpected trimmings they received from Youngstown and Jimmy Uchrinsko last year. More big league attractions are in the making for September.

Ruth's Comeback.

When one discusses the remarkable comeback of Babe Ruth this season one shouldn't limit that discussion to Babe's batting, including his home run efforts. For, in addition to slugging close to his old time form Ruth is fielding brilliantly. This of course is partly due to his good physical condition, but in a greater measure to his desire to make his comeback complete—and the new contract a fat one.

In a recent game against the White Sox Ruth was given credit for making one of the greatest catches of his career. Willie Kamm slammed what looked like a triple or homer to left field in the Chicago park. Ruth took a look at it, swung and raced away with his back to the ball. Turning, he saw that the ball was going over his head. He leaped high in the air and got it one-handed—in his glove.

TIGER NOT HURT BY FOUL BLOW

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—According to an announcement made by officials of Madison Square Garden today, Tiger Flowers, middleweight champion, was not seriously injured when struck an accidental low blow by Battling McCready in Atlanta on Tuesday. The Tiger, it was said, will be ready to defend the title again with Harry Greb, ex-champion, at the Garden on August 19.

The Toronto Golf club is to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary in September.

Miller Huggins Earns Right To Niche In Baseball Hall of Fame

CONCEDING that the New York Yankees have won the 1926 pennant in the American league Miller Huggins must be classed as the outstanding figure in that league—if not in baseball—today.

Looking at his case without any feeling of hysteria Huggins must be given a world of credit for transforming a disorganized seventh-place team into a flag winning combination in one season.

Several conditions have helped him of course. The remarkable comeback of Babe Ruth is the outstanding one. Ruth, after apparently facing the end of his career last fall, became once more the mainspring, the inspiration of the ball club—and in addition began to shine again as a home run hitter. His circuit clouts have run the ball games Huggins had prayed for while Ruth was hitting the high road of pleasure.

Ruth's success in holding to the path of rectitude has helped Huggins hold up the morale of the ball club.

The reversal of form shown by Urban Shocker—a dismal failure last year—has been more than a mere contributing factor. His comeback has been a brilliant one.

Herb Pennock's defiance of time—concerning which no one could even hazard a guess last spring—has helped.

But subtracting these factors from the discussion Huggins still belongs to the Miracle Man class because of his success in:

Rebuilding his infield at three points.

Plugging the gaps in that infield when Mark Koenig's slump and injuries to Joe Dugan forced changes.

The development of Lou Gehrig into a good first baseman.

The molding of Tony Lazzeri, Pacific Coast home run star, into a good second baseman.

That of Koenig, St. Paul infielder, into a brilliant shortstop.

The development of Earl Combs into a great outfielder.

The molding of Garland Braxton, rookie hurler, into a wonderful relief pitcher.

The molding of Pat Collins into a good catcher, after he had been shunted to the minors for a couple of years.

And most of all the instilling in the team the spirit to win. Huggins stated to me frankly last spring that one of his reasons for wrecking his old club and rebuilding it was because the old combination had lost the desire to "fight it out" for every game.

Huggins' feat in winning three American league pennants in a row doesn't stand out as brilliant as does his work of 1926. He had a team well constructed, with plenty of power and defensive strength to start that run. Babe Ruth might have furnished the necessary punch with any team that year—driving out the record breaking number of 59 home runs as he did.

The rise of the Hugman to the top at the start of Huggin's regime coincided too closely with Ruth's rise to fame to permit giving Huggins the maximum amount of credit there. This season, however, Huggins began his labors with Ruth an unknown quantity. Drastic methods invoked last season to enforce discipline in Ruth's case had shown the slugger his place in the scheme of things. To the list of Huggins' achievements then might be added his successful fight to bring Ruth to time by fair means or fines.

Weighing Miller Huggins as coldly as you will—and the public seems prone to do so—he must be ranked with George Stallings, John McGraw, Connie Mack and the others who have been classed as Miracle Men, Master Minders and just plain honest to goodness great managers.

License Committee Will Not Act Today On Champ's Request

Col. Phelan Declines Brower's Invitation To Special Meeting

Won't Get Together Again Until Next Week, He Says; in Meantime, Delay is Hurting Dempsey, Both Mentally and Physically.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The merry run-around that Jack Dempsey is getting in New York will be continued today when the state athletic commission will meet with the idea of paving the way for the champion to get his license but the license committee will not be there to give it to him.

This fact was made known today when Col. John J. Phelan, chairman of the license committee, informed the writer that he had declined George E. Brower's invitation to be present at a special meeting, called with the idea of placing the Dempsey-Tunney match definitely on the books. Col. Phelan declined to say why he would not be present.

"No reason at all," he said, airily. "We have had our meeting this week and will not call another until next week, probably Monday. The question of Dempsey's license can be taken up again then. The commission and my committee have been meeting separately for some weeks. I plan to keep this program in effect."

Won't Tell Plans.

He refuses to commit himself as to what action he would take when the matter did come before him. So did Tex Rickard and Gene Normile, speaking for the champion, both refusing to anticipate the situation by stating where they would take the bout in the event that it was definitely turned down here. They have Philadelphia, Baltimore and Jersey City in mind.

That, however, is beyond the point, which is that all this hocuspocus and rabbit-out-of-the-sleeve business has done the heavyweight champion practically no good. The writer would say, offhand, that the delay at this end has set Dempsey back two weeks, mentally if not physically.

Round-eyed experts who have stood about in whispering groups as Dempsey works out between flat-footing at the Flatiron building, say the champion looks great. I say that what his three year layoff has failed to do to him, this run-around here quite possibly will achieve.

When they stood him outside the commission offices for four hours on Tuesday, they tacitly declared an open season on Jack Dempsey for all the saps in town. Hedged in by Joe Windmill and kindred human ailments, he was the prey of every pest who happened along.

They brought him back yesterday to be mauled and hauled by souvenir hunters and all the rest of the I-was-there guys. Add to this the mental blackjacking involved in delaying the issue of a license and your have a picture of the heavyweight champion in training while his opponent gets the benefit of a quiet, effective day in camp.

May Ask Postponement.

It all narrows down to this: Tex Rickard is likely to ask today for a postponement of the Dempsey-Tunney match from September 16 to September 23, for the dual reason that a week's delay will react to the dual benefit of his champion and his box office.

First, however, Tex will make certain of Dempsey's license and may become so enamored of the accomplishment that he will forget other business, even that very vital matter of a $40 "top" for tickets.

The procedure today, as I understand it, is for Rickard and Dempsey to go before the commission with a Dempsey-Tunney contract, which will fulfill the rules of the board. It will be signed by Tunney but Dempsey's signature must wait until they turn up that hole card and produce the dear old license.

You know how those things are. Everything must be done in a businesslike and orderly manner.

The boy can then leave for his training camp, a wiser but possibly not a better man for his experience.

Of course, Jack Dempsey may defend his title successfully and Tex Rickard may make money on the transaction. But in neither case will it be the fault of the men who run boxing in this state.

Champ, Challenger Exchange Grins and Plan September Mav'ling Fracus

INSIDE Ggolf

By CHESTER HORTON,

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Thinking ahead of the swing is another mental aspect of golf that, as a habit, keeps many struggling players in the duffer class without their ever knowing what causes them so many upsets. Thinking ahead of things is this: When you prepare to execute a shot, you first make a quick mental survey of what you are to do in the matter of projecting the ball. Usually this implies that it is to be sent straight ahead. From that point, forget the shot as a shot and think of the swing. Visualize a rhythmic, easy swing of the club through the ball and think all the time in the terms of the swing. If, while preparing for the swing, and making it, you are thinking of the projection of the ball and what it is going to do, you are thinking ahead of things.

Letter Men Advance Training Camp Fund

Will Contribute $100 as Starter Toward Amount Necessary to Finance Blue and White's Visit Next Month to Pine Ridge.

THE East Liverpool Letter Men's association, organized several years ago for the purpose of assisting in the development and encouragement of athletics in the high school, held its first meeting of the year last night in the high school building.

Plans were discussed for the association's participation in the Blue and White's football campaign which is not very far way, a matter of a month or so, to be exact, and the association took a forward step in gathering up $100 which will be donated to Coach Kidder to aid in defraying training camp expenses.

The letter men can prove a powerful factor in placing East Liverpool football on a higher plane, where, by all means, it should be, considering the wealth of material which ordinarily the school has to select from, and its various athletic conveniences.

The association's action in digging down into its pocket and bringing out a century note is the kind of help that counts, help of the tangible, concrete variety.

Although Coach Kidder has not taken inventory yet, there is no indication of any unusual lack of new football timber this fall to throw in between the veterans that were left over from last season, one of the problems that always bobs up in September, and which ready response from the incoming classes will go a long way toward solving.

The average high school coach has no bed of roses, although he usually draws a complete allotment of thorns. It's a big job and all the help that the letter men can provide will be of no small value to the Blue and White mentor. And Kidder, well qualified as a gridiron tactician and leader, will appreciate the organization's services.

The letter men have capable officers and directors and their efforts should go a long way toward boosting school athletics.

Give Up O. & P. Ball.

Acting on the belief that Youngstown baseball fans are fed up on O. & P. league ball, directors of the Youngstown General Tires plan to cancel as many of the remaining league contests at home as possible and book in independent attractions.

The new policy starts off with the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game against the Tires next Sunday. The Philadelphia Nationals will return to Idora park August 22 to make up for two unexpected trimmings they received from Youngstown and Jimmy Uchrinsko last year. More big league attractions are in the making for September.

Ruth's Comeback.

When one discusses the remarkable comeback of Babe Ruth this season one shouldn't limit that discussion to Babe's batting, including his home run efforts. For, in addition to slugging close to his old time form Ruth is fielding brilliantly. This of course is partly due to his good physical condition, but in a greater measure to his desire to make his comeback complete—and the new contract a fat one.

In a recent game against the White Sox Ruth was given credit for making one of the greatest catches of his career. Willie Kamm slammed what looked like a triple or homer to left field in the Chicago park. Ruth took a look at it, swung and raced away with his back to the ball. Turning, he saw that the ball was going over his head. He leaped high in the air and got it one-handed—in his glove.

Ruloff-Elton Revue Tops Bill At Ceramic For Three Days

The Alex Ruloff and John Elton revue, a Spizzi vaudeville headliner featuring Mons Lucian Martin, world's youngest violinist, and the celebrated Spanish dancer, Ricardo Guerrero, with a dancing ensemble of six ballinas, tops the high class bill which opened a three day engagement at the Ceramic theatre today.

This company of nine people, which following record-breaking runs in San Francisco, Denver, Kansas City, Toronto and Montreal, Canada, theatres, appears in connection with the presentation of the feature picture, "Parisian Nights," starring Elaine Hammerstein and Lou Tellegen. This is a screen portrayal of the dazzling night life of the world's wickedest city. An Educational film, Lupino Lane in "His Private Life;" International News, Aesop's Fables and Lyman H. Howe also are on the picture program.

The Ruloff-Elton revue offers a repertoire of musical and dancing numbers, and sets off the program with pretty costumes and elaborate electrical effects.

Interpreted by a brilliant cast in which Elaine Hammerstein, Lou Tellegen and Renee Adoree are featured players and directed in the best suave and skillful manner of Al Santell, "Parisian Nights" proves a whale of a show, well-mounted, well-acted and of thrilling quality.

Miss. Hammerstein and Mr. Tellegen are particularly apt selections for the two leading characters; Adele, a young and beautiful America heiress who is studying sculpture in the French capital, and Jean, the intrepid young Apache leader with whom she falls in love. After repeated pleas Adele manages to gain Jean's consent to pose for the central figure in her marble masterpiece, for she feels that she has at last found the model for whom she has been so long looking. Taunted by his Apache compatriots with being a "rich woman's lap dog," Jean finally deserts the studio; but is sought out again in an underworld dive by Adele. Their intense love for each other leads them through many dangerous adventures, culminating in Jean's rescue of his beautiful patron from the Apache headquarters which are being stormed by the artillery.

Thrilling battles in the catacomb-like passages underneath Paris; the blowing up of the Apache stronghold by artillery fire; and Jean's dive into the dark waters of the Seine from a barred window with the unconscious form of Adele are high spots in a production replete with adventure.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The big-hearted Yankees tolled off two games in Washington, both by a score of 5 to 4, when Pennock and Hoyt failed to make the grade. Babe Ruth whacked his 37th homer and is six behind the record.

Bib Falk's fifth hit of the game, a home run, topped off a five run rally which gave the White Sox a 7 to 2 victory over Cleveland in the thirteenth inning.

The Tigers clawed Tom Zachary of the Browns for a 4 to 1 win. Gibson pitched for the winners and Manush got a homer.

Brooklyn woke up after nine straight defeats and whipped the Pirates, 4 to 2, scoring all four runs in the eighth inning. Dazzy Vance pitched for Brooklyn and showed his old-time form in the pinches.

The Cardinals advanced to within two games of the Buccaneers when Jess Haines won a 2 to 0 duel from Wertz of the Braves. A double by O'Farrell broke up the game.

The Reds went crazy with the bat and murdered the Phillies, 21 to 3. Hargrave getting four of Cincinnati's 21 hits. Pipp walloped a homer with the bases loaded.

Guy Bush held the Giants to three hits and the Cubs won in a romp, 11 to 1, tying the New Yorkers for fourth place.

Fight Results

AT OAKLAND, Cal.—Red Uhlan, Oakland middleweight, defeated Battling Gahee, Memphis negro, when the referee disqualified Gahee in the fourth round for not doing his best.

Jack Britton, the former world's welterweight champion, is reported to be planning a come-back. Britton, who is now in his 41st year, had a long and remarkable career in the ring. The record books list his first fight as a knockout victory over Steve Kinney in one round back in 1904.

One of the most curious tennis matches ever played took place at Brighton, England, some years ago. One contestant, a Life Guardsman, wore full dress uniform, while his opponent was mounted on a horse. The mounted player won by three sets to two.

Since the first of this year the pugilistic championships in the light heavyweight, middleweight, welterweight and lightweight divisions have changed hands and the featherweight title has been surrendered by its holder, Louis (Kid) Kaplan.

Ruloff-Elton Revue Tops Bill At Ceramic For Three Days

Nine People Appear in High Class Production in Connection With Hammerstein — Tellegen Film, "Parisian Nights."

The Alex Ruloff and John Elton revue, a Spizzi vaudeville headliner featuring Mons Lucian Martin, world's youngest violinist, and the celebrated Spanish dancer, Ricardo Guerrero, with a dancing ensemble of six ballinas, tops the high class bill which opened a three day engagement at the Ceramic theatre today.

This company of nine people, which following record-breaking runs in San Francisco, Denver, Kansas City, Toronto and Montreal, Canada, theatres, appears in connection with the presentation of the feature picture, "Parisian Nights," starring Elaine Hammerstein and Lou Tellegen. This is a screen portrayal of the dazzling night life of the world's wickedest city. An Educational film, Lupino Lane in "His Private Life;" International News, Aesop's Fables and Lyman H. Howe also are on the picture program.

The Ruloff-Elton revue offers a repertoire of musical and dancing numbers, and sets off the program with pretty costumes and elaborate electrical effects.

Interpreted by a brilliant cast in which Elaine Hammerstein, Lou Tellegen and Renee Adoree are featured players and directed in the best suave and skillful manner of Al Santell, "Parisian Nights" proves a whale of a show, well-mounted, well-acted and of thrilling quality.

Miss. Hammerstein and Mr. Tellegen are particularly apt selections for the two leading characters; Adele, a young and beautiful America heiress who is studying sculpture in the French capital, and Jean, the intrepid young Apache leader with whom she falls in love. After repeated pleas Adele manages to gain Jean's consent to pose for the central figure in her marble masterpiece, for she feels that she has at last found the model for whom she has been so long looking. Taunted by his Apache compatriots with being a "rich woman's lap dog," Jean finally deserts the studio; but is sought out again in an underworld dive by Adele. Their intense love for each other leads them through many dangerous adventures, culminating in Jean's rescue of his beautiful patron from the Apache headquarters which are being stormed by the artillery.

Thrilling battles in the catacomb-like passages underneath Paris; the blowing up of the Apache stronghold by artillery fire; and Jean's dive into the dark waters of the Seine from a barred window with the unconscious form of Adele are high spots in a production replete with adventure.

TAGGING ALL --BASES--

The big-hearted Yankees tolled off two games in Washington, both by a score of 5 to 4, when Pennock and Hoyt failed to make the grade. Babe Ruth whacked his 37th homer and is six behind the record.

Bib Falk's fifth hit of the game, a home run, topped off a five run rally which gave the White Sox a 7 to 2 victory over Cleveland in the thirteenth inning.

The Tigers clawed Tom Zachary of the Browns for a 4 to 1 win. Gibson pitched for the winners and Manush got a homer.

Brooklyn woke up after nine straight defeats and whipped the Pirates, 4 to 2, scoring all four runs in the eighth inning. Dazzy Vance pitched for Brooklyn and showed his old-time form in the pinches.

The Cardinals advanced to within two games of the Buccaneers when Jess Haines won a 2 to 0 duel from Wertz of the Braves. A double by O'Farrell broke up the game.

The Reds went crazy with the bat and murdered the Phillies, 21 to 3. Hargrave getting four of Cincinnati's 21 hits. Pipp walloped a homer with the bases loaded.

Guy Bush held the Giants to three hits and the Cubs won in a romp, 11 to 1, tying the New Yorkers for fourth place.

Fight Results

AT OAKLAND, Cal.—Red Uhlan, Oakland middleweight, defeated Battling Gahee, Memphis negro, when the referee disqualified Gahee in the fourth round for not doing his best.

Jack Britton, the former world's welterweight champion, is reported to be planning a come-back. Britton, who is now in his 41st year, had a long and remarkable career in the ring. The record books list his first fight as a knockout victory over Steve Kinney in one round back in 1904.

One of the most curious tennis matches ever played took place at Brighton, England, some years ago. One contestant, a Life Guardsman, wore full dress uniform, while his opponent was mounted on a horse. The mounted player won by three sets to two.

Since the first of this year the pugilistic championships in the light heavyweight, middleweight, welterweight and lightweight divisions have changed hands and the featherweight title has been surrendered by its holder, Louis (Kid) Kaplan.

Monument to Saviour Of Paris Dedicated; President Attends

PARIS.— General Gallieni, the saviour of Paris and the victor of von Kluck is commemorated in a monument which has been unveiled to his memory by the Maritime and Colonial League. Gaston Doumergue, President of the Republic was present and others were Lord Crewe, the English Ambassador, Ambassador Herrick and many others of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies.

The statute is the work of Jean Boucher and bears on the pedestal an inscription bearing Gallieni's famous Order of the Day when the German army was approaching Paris:

"I have received the order to defend Paris that order I shall carry out to the end."

Finds Self Man Without Country

Almost as tragic a story as the classic by Edward Everett Hale is the plight in detail of John Gray, Canadian, 26 years old, held in the Jackson county, Mo., jail for the violation of immigration laws. Gray came into the United States without passport and was denied citizenship in the United States and the Dominion will not sanction his return to the land of his birth.

$20,000 DAMAGE CASE SETTLED

The $20,000 automobile damage and personal injury case filed July 31st in common pleas court by Thomas A. Shegog against Mrs. Sara Shapiro, of East End, has been dismissed at the costs of the plaintiff.

Shegog, who for some years was chief ceramic engineer for the Sebring Pottery company, at Sebring, and who retired to represent raw clay distributing interests in the East Liverpool district, was injured when a car driven by him was crashed into by one driven by the plaintiff. The terms of the settlement of this case was not made a part of the record.

Members of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges of East End, attended the picnic held yesterday at the Lisbon fair grounds. Prominent members of both orders made addresses. Basket dinner at noon was a feature.

London's oldest woman, Mrs. Emma Oliver, celebrated her one-hundredth-first birthday by rising at seven to do the house work in preparation for a tea to celebrate the day.
